BYRNES URGES U.S. REVIVE DRAFT, WARN RUSSIA NOW IT WILL 'ACT' IF NECESSARY

CALLS FOR STEPS TO MEET CRISIS 'THAT MAY EXIST' WITHIN 4 WEEKS

Ex-Secretary Says Army, Air Force Should Be Increased to Back Up Declaration Against Further Expansion.

CHARLESTON, S.C., March 13 (AP)—James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, declared today the United States should "act," not just protest, if Russia threatens the independence of Greece, Turkey, Italy or France.

A new warning against "coercive" Soviet expansion should be served on Moscow now, he said in a speech at the Citadel Military College. To back it up, Byrnes urged this country to promptly revive its wartime draft and increase its air power.

Emphasizing he had no official information, he declared these steps were necessary to meet the world crisis "that may exist four or five weeks from now." He asserted that the Russians, under the guise of the Italian Communist party, might "act" in Italy before the April 18 elections.

"If the Soviets intend to act in Italy as they have in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, we can expect them to move whenever they reach the conclusion that Communists cannot win the election," he said. "They will not wait until the elections disclose that the Communists are in the minority."

"Prepare for Any Eventuality."

Byrnes stressed that he spoke as a private citizen. He said he had not consulted President Truman or Secretary of State George C. Marshall on his address.

He joined in Marshall's appeal for cool judgment in dealing with the critical world situation, but he added:

"It becomes the imperative duty of each one of us to insist that steps be taken immediately to prepare the United States for any eventuality. If we are going to talk strong, we must be strong."

Referring to Truman's and Marshall's warnings of a "very, very serious" world situation as "alarming words," Byrnes said: "When the President and the Secretary of State so describe world conditions, it is time for those of us who are private citizens to think not only calmly, but seriously, about the situation.

"It is time for us to ask—what are we doing about it? Are we prepared to meet a world crisis? I say we are not. Are we going to prepare? I hope so. I pray so."

Army of 669,000 Urged.

Revival of selective service was proposed by Byrnes as a first step to restore American military might. He said it was needed promptly to bring the Army up to its authorized strength of 669,000 men from its present "pitifully inadequate" 550,000, and should be coupled with increased air power.

"The very fact that Congress takes such action will contribute greatly to the preservation of peace," he asserted. "Mr. Molotov (the Russian Foreign Minister) does not understand English, but to him actions speak louder than words in any language."

Byrnes said universal military training was "desirable" for long-term planning four or five years from now, but not for "the situation that may exist four or five weeks from now." He said "the —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Singer Discards Crutches for 15 Minutes of Ceremony First Time Since Crash.

MIAMI, Fla., March 13 (UP)—Singer Jane Froman and John C. Burn, the heroic pilot who saved her life after a Lisbon air crash five years ago, were honeymooning today. They were married here yesterday in a simple ceremony at the home of friends and left immediately for a two-week honeymoon at an undisclosed place.

Miss Froman, a native St. Louisan, walked up the aisle on crutches. Then during the ceremony she discarded them and stood unaided for 15 minutes for the first time since she was thrown from a Pan American Clipper that crashed in landing in 1943.

The marriage climaxed a story-book romance that began with the tragic accident, when the singer and the 33-year-old Burn first met. Burn, a pilot of the plane, landed within 10 yards of Miss Froman when they were both hurled into the cold waters of the Tagus river as the plane cracked up. He heard the singer cry for help, and, despite the broken back he suffered in the crash, he swam to her and held her up in the water for 45 minutes until rescuers arrived.

Miss Froman swung easily to the altar on her crutches yesterday as her mother, Mrs. Anna Hetzler of St. Louis, Mo., played the wedding march.

Miss Froman was married and divorced previously. It is Burn's first marriage.

Miss Froman was born in St. Louis and began her career here in 1926 when she was engaged as a singer by Radio Station KMOX. She was reared in Clinton, Mo., and attended Christian College and the University of Missouri at Columbia.

PUBLIC HOUSING SUPPORTERS WIN COMMITTEE FIGHT

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 13—The Joint Congressional Committee on housing today adopted a report recommending construction of 500,000 public housing units as proposed by President Truman and the authors of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

This action of the committee repudiated the leadership of its chairman, Representative Ralph Gamble (Rep.), New York, and its vice chairman, Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, both avowed opponents of public housing.

Senator McCarthy announced the committee's action, but the text of the report itself was withheld until Monday afternoon. This will give minority members of the committee an opportunity to prepare a minority report or individual statements of their "reservations."

Minority Report Considered.

McCarthy said he thought there would be a minority report, by at least five Republican members of the committee. Other committee members thought the minority would express itself by individual members noting their exceptions to the majority report.

Senator Glen Taylor (Dem.), Idaho, made known his reservations today, terming the committee's recommendations "sound and desirable" but indicating his belief they do not go far enough toward providing housing for low-income groups.

McCarthy told reporters he opposed the public housing and rural housing provisions of the committee report, but expressed general satisfaction with it otherwise.

Aside from including public housing and rural housing, McCarthy said, the report was in substance an acceptance of his own recommendations with one minor exception.

McCarthy's bill, which has been described previously in the Post-Dispatch, contained a provision for income tax exemption on profits from moderate rental housing under certain conditions. The committee did not recommend this, but suggested it might be studied by the Senate and Housing Banking committees.

May Amend T.-E.-W. Bill.

For parliamentary reasons, McCarthy said, the legislation proposed by the joint committee probably will be offered as amend-

DRUNKEN MAN PAYS U.S. TAX, SOBER, HE OFFERS IT AGAIN

Tells Officials He Knew He "Had On a Dandy One," But Not That Good.

WASHINGTON, March 13 (UP)—The Internal Revenue Bureau swears to this: A man "feeling no pain" walked into a midwestern revenue office and paid his income tax, about $200.

The next day, sober, he walked in and tried to do it again. Told he had paid up the day before, the man remarked: "I knew I had on a dandy one, but I didn't know it was that good."

MEDICINAL WHISKY DEDUCTIBLE

But Tax Official Adds Word of Advice.

SAN JOSE, Calif., March 13 (AP)—Is the cost of medicinal whisky deductible from one's income tax return? A cautious "yes" came from the federal income tax man here today.

But he told the inquirer: "It is difficult to determine where medical treatment ends and recreation begins. The whisky, in quantity, must be advised by a doctor."

SLUM COMMISSION SUBCOMMITTEE INDORSES PLAN TO JOIN TWO PLAZAS

Group Also Favors Bond Issue and Development of Area for Clearing 3 Blocks, Says Chairman Ford.

The proposal to clear out three blocks of blighted area to connect the Memorial and Aloe plazas was indorsed unanimously yesterday by the special subcommittee of the St. Louis Anti-Slum Commission.

The subcommittee was appointed to make recommendations to the commission on the exact area to be involved in the proposal to clear out slums and rehabilitate the central area of the city, to determine the amount of a bond issue to be proposed, and to prepare detailed plans for the slum clearance program.

Lengthy Discussion.

The proposal to set aside the three blocks between Fifteenth and Eighteenth streets and between Market and Chestnut streets as plaza area which would form a connecting link between the two existing plazas in central St. Louis was discussed at length. It was referred to the subcommittee by the supervisory committee of the Citizens' Bond Issue Committee which held that bonds voted in 1944 for parks and playgrounds should not be used for the purpose and which recommended that the Anti-Slum Commission include the plaza proposal in its studies.

After the meeting, James L. Ford Jr., chairman of the subcommittee, said: "It is the unanimous feeling of the members of the subcommittee that the two plaza areas should be connected."

Ford added that the committee felt that the three blocks involved should be cleared and developed" on the basis of beautification and not be used for housing."

Decision Accepted.

Speaking of the action of the 1944 bond issue supervisory committee in rejecting a proposal to use existing bond funds for the purpose, Ford said that the subcommittee of the Anti-Slum Commission accepted the decision.

"That does not eliminate the development of the three blocks for plaza purposes by another bond issue," he pointed out. "It is the present thinking of the entire subcommittee that the three blocks should be developed for plaza purposes.

"It would be the finest sort of facing for the dwellings to be constructed on the three blocks to the north to have this three-block strip developed for plaza purposes."

All Members Present.

All the members of the subcommittee were present at yesterday's meeting. Besides Ford, these are: George C. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce; John J. Church, AFL union official; E. J. Russell, architect and former chairman of the City Plan Commission; and Arthur B. Baer, president of Stix, Baer & Fuller department store.

Also attending the meeting were Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann; Walter W. Head, general chairman of the Anti-Slum Commission, and City Counselor George L. Stemmler. President Milton M. Kinsey of the Board of Public Service and Harland Bartholomew, city planning engineer, technical advisors to the commission, were absent, but were represented by associates.

The subcommittee also asked the City Plan Commission to prepare graphic charts of the entire area proposed in the central east-west slum clearance project. This area is bounded by Fifteenth street and Grand boulevard, Market street and Olive street. The plan commission was asked also to designate which buildings in the area would remain, either because of the tremendous investment in them or the probable excessive cost of demolition.

Ford pointed out that several large industrial and commercial establishments were located in the area and that these would remain under any circumstances because of the amount of investment in them.

Estimates of Cost.

He said the plan commission was also asked to prepare estimates of cost of acquiring the properties in the area and preparing the area for housing development. The slum clearance program provides for acquisition of the land and preparing it for sale or lease to private builders who would have to construct housing facilities in accordance with plans developed for the area. The purchase and clearance would be done by the city with the proceeds of a special bond issue which will be proposed.

Because of the amount of preliminary work to be done, Ford expressed doubt as to whether the bond issue proposition could be prepared in time to place before the voters at the August primary election. If not, it will be placed before them at the general election in November, he said.

He also expressed it as his personal opinion that more than $10,000,000, a figure previously suggested, would be needed for the project.

"Even if $15,000,000 is required, I don't believe that is too great a price to pay for rehabilitation of the large central section of the city," he said. "When one considers that $4,150,000 was made available for parks and playgrounds under the last bond issue, I don't think that $15,000,000 will be much out of line, considering the much greater scope of this program. The bond issue proposal should be flexible so that some money can be made available for additional locations if all is not used or needed in the central east-west area."

ST. LOUIS AUTO DEALER TELLS OF HIS NEGOTIATIONS WITH OFFICIALS

By JAMES A. KEARNS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 13—A. C. (Andy) Burger, St. Louis automobile distributor and investor, told the Post-Dispatch today that the Government is seeking $810,562 in additional income taxes and penalties from him in its investigation of his income tax returns for 1941-42-43-44. He said he was attempting to settle the claim for a much lower figure. One settlement figure mentioned, he said, was $264,000.

Burger, who is vacationing here with his wife, Mrs. Imogene Burger, told of his negotiations with the Internal Revenue Department after the House Appropriations subcommittee had criticized the department for its handling of cases in St. Louis and other offices. The report of investigators to the subcommittee mentioned the case of a St. Louis business man who owed $804,000 in back taxes and penalties and who was negotiating a compromise in the case.

Burger emphasized there was no question of fraud in the Government's claim against him.

Basis of Dispute.

The tax dispute with the Government arose, Burger said, over the designation of his wife as a partner in several business enterprises in which they both are interested. As a partner with her husband, he said, they filed separate income tax returns based on a division of the profits from the businesses.

"I reported my part of the earnings," he said, "and so did my wife. But they (revenue agents) wanted to throw the whole thing on me. Naturally, the surtax would be much higher if all the earnings were mine."

On the theory that all profits should have been reported by Burger, the Government claims alleged tax deficiencies of $52,549 for 1941; $114,630 for 1942; $207,785 for 1943 and $159,998 for 1944. Penalties, amounting to $275,598, bring the total to $810,562.

Among the businesses in which Burger and his wife have investments, he said, are Community Motors, Imogene Burger Investment Co., Tool Manufacturing Co., ABC Leasing Co., all of St. Louis, and Capitol City Motors Co. of Springfield, Ill., and Marion Motors Co. of Marion, Ill. In addition, they are interested in the following businesses formed after 1944: Community Appliance Co. of St. Louis; Burger Motors Co. of Rock Island, Ill.; Automotive Rebuilding Co. of St. Louis; Burger Investment Co., a real estate holding company of St. Louis, and Automotive Service Co. of St. Louis.

"Strictly Investors."

"My wife has her own money invested in these businesses," Burger said, "and I have mine invested in them. We are strictly investors. There are general managers for each business, who are responsible to Imogene Burger and to A. C. Burger as well."

The Government also has objected, he said, to the listing on his income tax returns of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Burger of St. Joseph, Mo., as partners in the Tool Manufacturing Co. Burger said that in 1943 his mother bought a 10 per cent interest in the business from his wife and he sold another 10 per cent to his father.

"The Government calls this an 'arms-length' partnership, although my parents paid us for their share of the business," he said.

Another objection made by the tax bureau related to a trust established for the Burgers's 19-year-old daughter, Nancy Jean, in 1941.

Trust Later Dissolved.

The trust for Nancy Gene consisted of a one-third interest in the South Side Buick Co., which later was dissolved and became a partnership between Mr. and Mrs. Burger under the name of Andy Burger Motors. In addition, the trust consisted of a one-third interest in Community Motors.

To allow Nancy Gene to buy the interest in the two companies, Burger said, he and his wife gave their daughter $27,000, for which they paid a federal gift tax.

"The business prospered, and this $27,000 investment grew to have a net worth of $150,000," Burger said. "Nancy Gene paid almost $200,000 in taxes for four years, based on this interest in the business."

The trust agreement was dissolved in July 1946, by order of the St. Louis County Probate Court, where it was filed, after the tax dispute arose.

The report released by the subcommittee mentioned the unnamed St. Louisan had established a trust for his minor daughter, and that the National

Superintendent Hickey Asserts He Will Urge Dropping of Practice in View of U.S. Supreme Court Decision.

The Board of Education program of released time for weekday religious instruction in public schools was held illegal in an opinion by Emmet T. Carter, attorney for the board, made public today.

Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey, who had requested the opinion, forwarded copies to board members yesterday, informing them at the same time that at the next board meeting, April 13, he would recommend dropping of the religious instruction program.

Conflict With Rule.

Carter found that the board's arrangement with the Interfaith Committee, which supervises the program, was in conflict with the rule laid down by the United States Supreme Court last Monday in the Vashti McCollum case. The court held that a religious instruction program in the Champaign (Ill.) schools violated constitutional provisions separating church and state.

Reviewing details of the religious instruction program, Carter in his opinion pointed out that "if a pupil is reported as absent from attendance at religious instruction his absence will be reported in the same manner as if he were absent at school for secular instruction."

Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, president of the board and pastor of Third Baptist Church, who had announced last Tuesday that religious instruction would continue unless specific objection were raised, said today the Carter ruling "may prove a blessing in disguise."

"I cannot anticipate, of course, what action the board will take," Dr. Johnson said. "If, however, school participation is to cease, the result may be that the home and the church will have thrown back on them a responsibility which they may have been neglecting.

"With the Interfaith Committee organized as it is to provide instruction, the activity might be continued on an afterschool basis."

The Rev. Clarence Peters, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church and secretary of the Interfaith Committee, expressed regret at the ruling, remarking that it would mean "undoing of the work of years." The program, which permitted release of children during school hours, with parental consent, for religious instruction outside the schools, was started in 1939.

Text of Opinion.

Text of Carter's opinion follows:

"Under date of March 9, 1948, you addressed a letter to me in which you outlined the procedure now being followed by the Board of Education of the City of St. Louis in excusing pupils from school for the purpose of receiving religious instruction, and to which letter you attached copy of certain directives issued to principals, as well as other data with reference to the procedure for release of pupils for religious instruction, together with specimens of the authorization therefor to be signed by parents, and pamphlets for distribution to children and delivery by them to their parents. It is my understanding that classes continue for students not released for religious instruction.

"Subsequent to receipt of your

DAIRIES TO LIMIT DELIVERIES TO ONE EVERY TWO DAYS

All dairies in the St. Louis area will reduce home deliveries to the every-other-day schedule that prevailed during the war, under a contract amendment concluded today with drivers, it was announced by Patrick J. Burke, secretary-treasurer of Local 603 of the AFL Milk Wagon Drivers' Union.

Burke said the reduction was requested because drivers had found most customers preferred delivery on alternate days after becoming accustomed to it during the war. New delivery schedules may be placed in effect immediately, he said, but dairies have until April 26 before they will be required to start paying overtime under a new work schedule for drivers. Under the contract amendment providing for delivery on alternate days on any given route, drivers will work a 48-hour, six-day week, a reduction of six hours weekly.

The contract had not been scheduled to be opened for wages until next June 30, and for working conditions not until June 1949, Burke said. However, he added, the union decided to seek reopening on the delivery schedule question now because it was felt it would be in the interests of the industry and a service to the community. Daily route coverage was restored in November 1945 under terms of an existing contract with the union.

SOUTHERN GOVERNORS URGE FIGHT TO DEFEAT TRUMAN

Conference Calls on South to 'Take Every Action' to Repudiate Civil Rights Program and Sponsors.

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—The Southern Governors' Conference agreed unanimously today to oppose the renomination of President Truman.

Truman was not mentioned directly by name, but:

The conference recommended "to the people of the southern states that they fight to the last ditch" to prevent the nomination of any candidate for President or Vice President who supports the civil rights program recently recommended to Congress by Truman.

Truman only yesterday was quoted as saying he "still stands" on his recommendations and will not change them.

Governors present and voting were: William Preston Lane Jr. of Maryland, Fielding Wright of Mississippi, Beauford Jester of Texas, James E. Folsom, Alabama; M. E. Thompson, Georgia; Strom Thurmond, South Carolina, and Ben Laney, Arkansas.

In event the national convention nominates someone advocating passage of anti-segregation, anti-lynching, anti-poll atx and fair employment practices legislation, the committeemen recommended that the southern states "see to it that the electoral college votes of their states are not cast for such nominee."

They called on the full conference for adoption of the report.

Their report also recommended: "That we go on record as repudiating the present national leadership of the Democratic party in

GRAIN PRICES JUMP AS U. S. BUYS MORE WHEAT FOR EXPORT

Warning Purchases Will Be Suspended if Markets Get Out of Hand.

CHICAGO, March 13 (AP)—Grain prices advanced today as the Government started buying wheat for export. Wheat futures closed 4¼ to 6½ cents a bushel higher on the Board of Trade. Corn jumped 5 to 7⅞ cents and oats were up 1½ to 3 cents a bushel. Cotton futures at New York closed $2 to $2.25 a bale higher.

May wheat closed at Chicago at $2.40 to $2.40½ a bushel, May corn at $2.18 to $2.18⅝, and May oats at $1.12½@¼. Prices are far below their February highs.

The Production Marketing Administration said Government buying of wheat would be resumed today, but strictly on a trial basis. It said the Government would buy about 1,000,000 bushels of wheat a day for export. The Government needs only 8,600,000 bushels to fill April commitments, but is expected to continue buying for May.

The PMA issued a stern warning to grain traders, however, that purchases would be suspended if Agriculture Department experts believe Government buying is pushing prices out of line.

MILD WEEK AHEAD, FORECASTER HOPES; UP TO 55 TOMORROW

Generally fair and warm weather through Monday, and perhaps a week of mild and better-than-seasonal weather was predicted today by Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren.

Warm air masses from the Pacific coast had spread over most of the middle west by this morning, and will continue eastward, Wahlgren said. St. Louis was the warmest spot in Missouri this morning with a reading of 29 at 9 o'clock. A constant reading of 23 was recorded here from 4 to 7 a.m. today, although Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport's station reported 17 at 6 a.m.

Several places in the middle west were still cold this morning. Tarkio, Mo., reported a temperature of 3 below, and Atlantic, Ia., 17 below.

Today's high in St. Louis in the middle 40s will be bested by a high of 55 tomorrow afternoon. Lowest tonight will be about 30. "I'm crossing my fingers for a mild week," Wahlgren commented. "I am running low on cordwood for the fireplace anyway."

SHANGHAI-TO-NEW YORK PLANE WITH 30 ABOARD MISSING

Search Craft Report Citing Wreckage in Alaska, but Identification Is Not Positive.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 13 (UP)—A Northwest Airlines DC-4 passenger plane with 30 persons aboard was missing today on a flight from Shanghai to New York.

Reports of a fire on a mountainside 200 miles east of Anchorage led to belief the plane had crashed.

SENATE REJECTS TAFT'S MOVE TO SLASH AID FUND

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—The Senate raced toward final action today on the European recovery program after defeating a major drive to slash its first-year funds.

By a 56-to-31 vote late last night it rejected a determined effort led by Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, to cut $1,300,000,000 off the $5,300,000,000 Marshall plan figures.

A $44,000,000 fund for aiding exports of surplus farm products was tacked on the $5,300,000,000 bill today after a long argument.

Action came on a voice vote after Senator Williams (Rep.), Delaware, protested that it was a "subsidy by indirection." He said also it would increase the total of the bill by $44,000,000 for this year. Backers of the measure did not dispute this.

Senator Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, aided by Senators from tobacco, fruit, potato and egg producing areas won the victory on the surplus farm products amendment.

What the Senate decided to do is this: Take $44,000,000 in customs receipts Congress already has voted to give to the Treasury this year and make it available to pay half of the cost of exports of surplus farm products. The other half of the cost would have to come out of money directly appropriated for the recovery program.

The vote came after Senator Wherry (Rep.), Nebraska, told Senators they might be held in session far into the night in an effort to complete Senate action on the bill.

He advised Senators to plan to take their meals at the Capitol and "stay available for quorum calls."

The bill is designed to speed funds to 16 western European nations to bolster them against Communism. Once past the Senate, the bill faces further action by the House.

Today's session followed a night meeting that wound up at 11:03 o'clock. There were still a stack of amendments to be considered before the Senate could reach a final vote.

Elated backers said the defeat of Taft's proposal insured Senate approval of the bill without major changes.

That would be a victory for Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and chief congressional exponent of the bipartisan foreign policy.

Vandenberg stood his ground firmly as Taft led 22 other Repub-

Woman in Tax Line Gives Ex-G.I. $12,000 to Buy House for Himself

WASHINGTON, March 13 (UP)—The veteran looked to be about 25 years old. His pretty wife appeared to be a couple of years younger.

The Internal Revenue Bureau deputy who was helping them with their income tax thought they looked a little worried. They were. A matter of housing. They had been trying to rent a place. No luck.

As they talked about their troubles, their voices rose. The veteran said none of the ads had panned out. His wife wondered what they would do.

The neatly dressed woman in the next line wasn't eavesdropping exactly. But she couldn't help hearing. She looked to be 60 or so.

"Sort of grandmotherish," the Internal Revenue man said.

She edged out of her line a little way, and tapped the veteran on the arm.

"Young man," she said. "It's foolish to rent a house. Why don't you buy one?"

The veteran smiled politely. "Money," he said.

The Internal Revenue man interrupted his story at this point. "Now this is the exact truth," he said. "It happened. There were witnesses."

"Money—I'll take care of that," she said.

She filled out a check, signed it, and handed it to the veteran. It was for $12,000.

The veteran goggled. So did his wife. After a while, the veteran said to the woman, "Let's go somewhere out of this crowd."

The three left together and, the bureau man said, "We haven't seen Mr. and Mrs. Veteran since."

"For all we know," he added, "they've got their house and are all set to live happily ever after."

Eisenhower Quickly Takes Title 'Best-Dressed Man in Public Life'

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—Only a few weeks in civilian clothes and already the nation's "best dressed man in public life"—that's Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The former Army chief of staff was accorded the title by the Custom Tailors Guild of America, which made public yesterday its second postwar list of best-dressed American men.

James Balletta, Guild president, said Eisenhower, new president of Columbia University, beat out Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, for the title.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

By A. I. GOLDBERG

PRAGUE, March 13 (AP)—Solemn funeral services were held today for Czech Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk.

In the vaulted pantheon of the National Museum, draped in black, Communist Premier Klement Gottwald made the main funeral oration, berating the critics of Masaryk in the West and indirectly accusing them of his death.

Czechs of high and low estate jammed shoulder to shoulder in overcast and wind-whipped Wenceslaus Square to hear by loudspeaker the main ceremonies in the pantheon. Other thousands packed the streets for blocks around. Yesterday more than 250,000 persons had filed past Masaryk's bier.

The frail, ailing President, who helped Masaryk's father mold this republic, dried his eyes as a eulogy by a Government official recalled episodes of Jan Masaryk's life.

Weeps at Song.

The President stood with head bowed into the fur collar of his overcoat. He seemed to be trying to maintain his composure.

Then the lights went down and a children's choir sang the favorite folk song of Czechoslovakia's first President, Thomas G. Masaryk. Benes broke into tears. He mopped his face and mouth with a handkerchief, and rubbed his eyes with his fingers.

The song that brought tears welling to the President's eyes was "Plough Your Land, My Son." It was sung at the funeral of Thomas G. Masaryk in 1937.

Benes talked for an hour with Jan Masaryk Tuesday night. The next morning Masaryk's body was found below a window of Czernin Palace, the Foreign Ministry office. The Communists, who seized power two weeks ago, said Masaryk committed suicide.

Benes reached the Pantheon of the National Museum at 2 p.m. (7 a.m., St. Louis time), and a few seconds later the funeral began.

Gottwald's Oration.

Gottwald, in his funeral oration, asserted: "I can prove that Jan Masaryk clearly and without compromise agreed with the action program of the new Government and already started to fulfill this program within his sphere of influence.

"I can prove that Masaryk, who decided to go with the people, when he stood on the crossroads of our nation's fate, meant what he said."

Hundreds of thousands of persons were gathered for the state and military rites arranged by the Communist Government. From early morning they trudged toward the National Museum — clerks, shopkeepers, merchants, laborers and peasants from the country.

A Woman's Comment.

"Look at them," said one woman in the crowd, pointing to the Communists. "They do not even have enough decency to stay at home, those hypocrites. They have come to sneer at their victims."

Gottwald told the mourners the crisis in Czechoslovakia was engineered by the West.

"I can prove it myself that from the first days of the Government crisis, Jan Masaryk distinctly kept away from those who plotted this crisis," he declared.

Then he indirectly blamed Masaryk's friends in the West for the Foreign Minister's death, saying:

"Whoever knew the character of Jan Masaryk knew how sensitive he was toward personal attacks; they must understand how difficult it would be for Jan Masaryk to get this concentrated attack on his deepest feelings and his nerves.

"To this comes his illness, and taking together these facts, we get the circumstances that drove him to his tragic end."

"We who are staying have taken a lesson from your bequest that one should always go with the people," Gottwald said. "And we, dear Honza, shall always be with the people and go forward with the people. This is our promise to you."

Benes kept his head bowed while Gottwald spoke. When the formal ceremonies ended, he and his wife moved across the aisle from the center section where they were seated. They kissed Alice Garrigue Masaryk, sister of the dead Foreign Minister. Then they embraced Mme. Herbert Masaryk, widow of Masaryk's elder brother, and solemnly greeted two of Masaryk's nieces.

The family, garbed in black, had occupied seats in the front row, ahead of the British, French, American and Chinese Ambassadors, the Canadian charge d'affaires and other dignitaries.

Premier Gottwald, hesitantly, approached the President and extended a hand. The President took it for a brief handshake. Then he turned quickly to the Speaker of Parliament, Josef David, head of the Czech legionaries, and gripped his hand firmly.

Return to Palace.

From the museum, the funeral procession moved back to Czernin Palace.

When the President left the pantheon, soldiers began to remove the great wreaths banked against the bier and along the stairways and entrances. The coffin was carried out and lashed to an artillery piece.

The multitude looked on in silence as the coffin was borne down the steps to the sidewalks of the public square.

Every window of every building along the route of march was filled.

For all the vast throng, there was an almost unbelievable hush, broken only by occasional sobs and the muted music of the military band which marched slowly ahead of the caisson.

Thirty miles away at Lany, a fresh grave was dug beside the simple resting place of Masaryk's father, Thomas G. Masaryk, the founder and first president of this republic.

Members of the family and Government officials gathered at Czernon Palace to see the body transferred from the gun caisson to a hearse for the trip to Lany.

The burial services in Masaryk's native Bohemia were at dusk. Every house in Lany displayed a photograph of Masaryk, banded with black. Busloads of people poured in from as far away as Moravia to pay their final tribute.

Tribute From Veteran.

When President Benes arrived at the national museum, trombones struck up the martial strains of the Hussite war song, "Who Are the Warriors of God." Then the Prague National Theater's string quartet played a passage of "From My Life," by the revered Czech composer Smetana.

Gottwald spoke, and then Frantisek Janda, 73 years old, a veteran of the first World War, paid tribute in the name of those who three decades ago fought for Czechoslovak independence. His voice broke as he recalled how Masaryk's father organized the first units of the Czech legions. Later, he said, Jan Masaryk used to tell the legionaires: "We are all brothers, because we have one father."

"When Thomas Garrigue Masaryk died, Jan told us 'I have always loved you. Today I must love you even more to make up at least partly for the love of my father,'" Janda recalled.

"I remember how he used to strengthen us all during the second World War. I remember when, for the first time, he broadcast from London. He said, 'By the name which I bear we shall win this fight. Truth will prevail.' And he, on the side of our President Benes, has the greatest credit for it.

"We thank you for your faith, for your superhuman effort in fighting for freedom and a bit of happiness for everybody."

President Benes dried his eyes.

From noon onward the center of Prague was choked with people. Street cars were routed away from the area. Busses poured out thousands of mourners. The crush around the museum was impassable.

A train carrying mourners into the city struck a switch in a yard, and 50 persons were slightly injured.

The Government's broadcasting network interrupted its continuous program of hymns during the day only once, for a brief news broadcast. The radio said more flowers had been received at Masaryk's funeral than were received even for his father's rites.

Meanwhile the Government continued tightening measures to prevent escapes from the country. Border guards are changed daily to lessen chances for an escape organization to be set up.

Vaclav Talich, director of the National Theater, was ousted by action committees yesterday.

The Government-sponsored radio said last night that Rudolf Firkusny, Czech pianist who spent the war years in the United States, has been ousted from the syndicate of Czechoslovak composers.

CHILE'S DEMAND FOR CZECH INQUIRY PUTS RUSSIA ON SPOT

By LARRY HAUCK

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 13 (AP) — Chile's demand for United Nations investigation of the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia pushed Russia today into the role of a defendant before the world.

The Security Council put the case on its provisional calendar for next Wednesday. The Russians then must meet head-on the Chilean allegations that the methods of Nazi Germany are being used by "a member state against another member state" and that "the extent and magnitude of the plans of the U.S.S.R." stand revealed.

Called to Account.

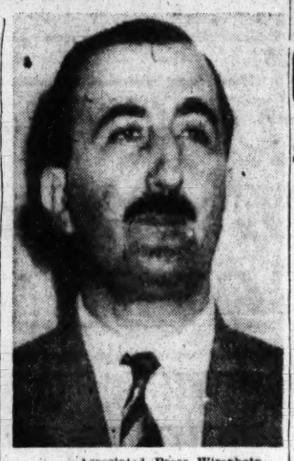

This was the first time Russia has been called directly to account since the Iranian case in early 1946. The feeling here was that the current case presages a test between Russia and the western powers over expansion of Soviet influence.

The United States delegation refrained from comment. However, on the basis of recent statements by President Truman and Secretary of State George C. Marshall, strongest American support for the Chilean case could be expected.

In filing the case yesterday, Chilean Delegate Hernan Santa Cruz emphasized he had not discussed it in advance with any other delegate, on strict orders from President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla in Santiago. This apparently was to forestall any charges that the move was dictated by the United States.

Action by the government of Chile forced consideration of the once rejected case. Secretary-General Trygve Lie had ruled out the same charges presented by Dr. Jan Papanek, Czechoslovak anti-Communist delegate.

Informed persons predicted the case would run something like this:

HERNAN SANTA CRUZ

1. Russia will wage a bitter fight, with certain support from the Soviet Ukraine, to kill the charges before the 11-nation Council can discuss them. However, moving the case from the provisional calendar to the official agenda is a matter of procedure and therefore outside the range of the big power veto held by Russia and the other great powers. Chile, not a member of the Council, needs the support of seven delegates to get the case heard.

2. Failing to muster five opposition votes, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko may repeat his walkout of March 1946, when he left the Council chamber in a row over the Iranian case.

3. If Russia stays and fights, one of the bitterest propaganda battles in the U.N.'s two-year history is in prospect with perhaps the life of the organization at stake.

Chile broke off diplomatic relations last October with Russia, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia. This was done on charges that the three interfered in Chile's internal affairs.

HOW SENATORS VOTED ON TAFT PROPOSAL TO CUT AID PLAN FUND

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP). FOLLOWING is the vote by which the Senate rejected last night a proposal by Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, to cut the first year's outlay for the Marshall plan to four billion dollars:

FOR THE PROPOSAL, 31.

Republicans for—Ball, Brewster, Bricker, Brooks, Buck, Butler, Capehart, Dworshak, Ecton, Hawkes, Jenner, Kem, Langer, Malone, Martin, McCarthy, Moore, Revercomb, Robertson of Wyoming, Taft, Wherry, Williams, Wilson—23.

Democrats for—Byrd, Chavez, Johnson of Colorado, Johnston of South Carolina, McFarland, O'Daniel, Russell, Taylor—8.

Republicans against — Aiken, Baldwin, Bridges, Cain, Capper, Cooper, Cordon, Ferguson, Flanders, Gurney, Hickenlooper, Ives, Knowland, Lodge, Millikin, Morse, Reed, Saltonstall, Smith, Thye, Tobey, Vandenberg, Wiley, Young—24.

Democrats against — Barkley, Connally, Downey, Eastland, Ellender, Fulbright, George, Green, Hatch, Hayden, Hill, Hoey, Holland, Kilgore, Lucas, Magnuson, Maybank, McCarran, McGrath, McKellar, McMahon, Murray, Myers, O'Conor, O'Mahoney, Overton, Pepper, Robertson of Virginia, Sparkman, Stewart, Thomas of Oklahoma, Umstead—32.

Not voting but announced as against: Stennis and Wagner, Democrats; and Bushfield, Republican.

SENATE REJECTS TAFT'S MOVE TO SLASH AID FUND

licans and eight Democrats in an effort to cut tthe fund to four billion dollars. Vandenberg carried 23 other Republicans and 32 Democrats with him.

For the Senate, yesterday was an 11-hour day of bickering, charges and counter-charges.

Senator Kem (Rep.), Missouri, started it off with a speech that lasted four hours, through one interruption after another. Kem said the plan would wreck American capitalism and wouldn't stop Communism in Europe.

Speech by Taft.

Taft said it was justified "by the world battle against Communism," all right. But he said it was "completely without economic justification."

"We may lose every cent we put up, but it seems to me there is a chance it will aid the battle against Communism," he said. "The stakes are so large that I believe we should take that chance."

He said emphatically that "this is no war measure." He said he did not understand President Truman's statement Wednesday that his faith in peace was somewhat shaken. Taft said he did not believe there was danger of war.

He warned that the recovery program would be a "serious interference with our own economic stability."

Clash With Vandenberg.

Taft's statement that approval of the aid bill now would not bind this country to continue it later brought on a sharp clash with Vandenberg.

The bill "contemplates" four years of American aid, Vandenberg said. Although no Congress can bind the next one, he added, he would feel obliged to vote for an extension next year if the 16 participating nations live up to their pledges.

"I wholly disagree," Taft shouted. "There is no such obligation. There is no contract. They are not our partners. So far as I can see, they haven't agreed to do anything to our advantage except as it is to their own advantage."

Vandenberg retorted that the program calls for mutual action, adding: "Mutual co-operation so far as I am concerned is a two-way street."

Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, one of the program's chief sponsors in Congress, told his colleagues it would be worth all the sacrifice involved if the United States could contribute "even slightly" to world peace.

"Not since the Thirty Years' War has the world been in such a state of chaos and uncertainty as it is today," he asserted.

The Republican leadership has set April 10 as a tentative target date for action on all foreign aid programs. That is only eight days before the Italian elections, which are expected to provide a new test of Communist strength in Europe.

SWEDEN TO JOIN BRUSSELS TALKS ON CUSTOMS UNION

Stockholm Announces Decision—U.S. Pleased by Drafting of Five-Power Military Pact.

STOCKHOLM, March 13 (AP)—Sweden has decided to join the group established by the European Marshall plan countries in Brussels to study a customs union, the Foreign Office announced last night.

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—The five-power draft military alliance approved at Brussels yesterday was reported highly pleasing to American officials, although the State Department withheld formal comment for the time being.

The organization of a union of western European nations, of which the Brussels group may form a nucleus, is in line with present American foreign policy for blocking the spread of Russian power. The plan for such a union as first suggested by British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin was indorsed by the State Department weeks ago and more recently Secretary of State George C. Marshall called the proposal this Government's "great hope."

Despite the progress registered in the Brussels meeting in which Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg participated, many questions remained to be answered. Among these are: How rapidly can the proposed treaty be expanded to include other countries and how much support do nations which may be bound by the treaty expect from the United States in the sense of military backing?

Capiol Hill comment on completion of the draft treaty included:

Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kenttucky: "It is a great step. It shows these countries are willing to take some of the risks themselves against the crawling of a giant across the continent."

Senator Smith (Rep.), New Jersey: "I am tremendously delighted. This is just what we are driving at in the Marshall plan."

Senator Pepper (Dem.), Florida: "I don't think it's the solution of world peace or prosperity. It creates a western bloc to stand against the east and the more blocs that are created, the more difficult it will be to get the world under one tent for peace."

Representative Lodge (Rep.), Connecticut: "This is a very hopeful indication that the nations of western Europe realize the urgency of their getting together."

MEAT PACKERS PREPARING FOR STRIKE; CUT PURCHASES

CHICAGO, March 13 (UP)—Big meat packers began preparations today for a nation-wide packing house strike which would shut down about one third of the industry.

Packers cut down on their livestock purchases and planned to complete slaughtering operations by tonight. Many of the big cornbelt stockyards notified farmers not to ship animals to market unless they contact the buyers first. The strike is scheduled to begin at 12:01 a.m., Tuesday.

(The plant of Armour & Co. at Granite City is the only one in the St. Louis area that would be affected. Other employ AFL members.)

The union has asked for a 29-cent-an-hour pay increase, but indicated it would settle for a boost of 19 cents. The packers have offered to increase wages 9 cents an hour.

LAST OF EIRE'S POLITICAL PRISONERS GIVEN FREEDOM

DUBLIN, March 13 (AP)—John A. Costello, Eire's new prime minister, has freed the last of Ireland's political prisoners.

Only five remained in jail when Costello was elected premier Feb. 18. Two later were released because of ill health. Unexpired sentences of the remaining three were remitted this week, Costello told the Dail (parliament):

"A continuance of the detention of these three men would only result in the perpetuation of resentment and unrest."

50 PCT. BOOST IS PROPOSED IN NORWAY DEFENSE BUDGET

OSLO, March 13 (UP) — The Norwegian Parliament had under consideration today a Government request for an additional 100,000,000 kroner ($20,000,000) defense appropriation.

Premier Einar Gerhardsen submitted the request, which represented a 50 per cent increase in the coming fiscal year's military budget of 207,000,000 kroner.

Gerhardsen said the additional funds would be used to call up more officers and men, particularly technical personnel.

Ohio Murderer Goes to Chair.

COLUMBUS, O., March 13 (AP)—The state last night electrocuted 22-year-old Floyd Dace, Negro, for the killing of a dice game operator. Dace and two companions were convicted of killing Henry Lee Webb in August 1946, during a dispute over a dice game at Cleveland. The companions, James Griffen, 26, and Robert Britton, 22, were put to death last Nov. 28.

FLEEING CZECHS REPORT KILLINGS BY BORDER GUARDS

Most of Refugees Apparently Believe Masaryk Was Assassinated and Benes Is Prisoner.

HOF, Germany, March 13 (AP)—Czechoslovaks fleeing their Communist-ruled homeland said yesterday the Czech border region has become a huge hunting ground where reinforced frontier guards attempt to block the escape of refugees.

The sound of gunfire is heard day and night on the Czech side of the border, they said. Militiamen have been called up to reinforce the regular border guards.

Nevertheless, the informants said, scores of refugees are getting through to the United States occupation zone of Germany.

An unshaven man who reached this border city said an 18-year-old boy was killed and a woman was wounded Thursday when Czech border guards spotted them.

He said persons captured trying to flee from Czechoslovakia are sentenced to five to 20 years in prison. The refugees, he added, are becoming increasingly desperate.

Several refugees literally crashed into the American zone when they smashed their automobiles into control point gates and drove on through showers of splinters. The group was reported to have included a Czech general.

A trainload of 137 Czechoslovaks who reached the U.S. zone in the last few days left the Moschendorf Refugee Camp for Schwabach. There they will join 200 other refugees who preceded them.

Apparently most of the refugees were of the opinion that Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk did not commit suicide but was slain. No one dissented when a spokesman said: "He did not jump out that window. He was pushed."

The refugees also expressed the belief that President Eduard Benes was a prisoner of the Communists.

"He never spoke on the radio as he intended to after the Communist putsch," said one. "That isn't like him."

RELIGIOUS CLASS RELEASED TIME HELD ILLEGAL

letter, you advised me that an attendance record is kept for children who are released for the purpose of attending religious instruction, which attendance record is returned to the principal of the school, and further you have advised me that children enrolled in the elementary schools who are released for religious instruction at 2:25 p.m. are not required to return to the schools at the termination of the religious instruction at 3:25 p.m. The elementary school day ends at 3:25 p.m. Students attending religious instruction at earlier hours are required to return to the school after such instruction. It is my understanding that this program is in effect in the secondary or high schools of the city to a limited extent. All religious instructions are given off the premises of the schools according to my information.

Reaches Conclusion.

"I have concluded from the foregoing that if a pupils is reported as absent from attendance at religious instruction his absence will be reported and handled in the same manner as if he were absent from school for secular instruction.

"In your letter you have asked me whether or not, in my opinion, the program as conducted by the Board of Education of the City of St. Louis is contrary to the rules of law governing religious instruction in public schools as announced by the Supreme Court of the United States on the 8th day of March, 1948, in its opinion rendered in the case of People of the State of Illinois ex rel Vashti McCollum, Appellant vs. Board of Education of School District No. 71, Champaign, Illinois, et al.

"Assuming that the aforesaid opinion of the Supreme Court is not altered or modified in response to any appropriate motion, it is my opinion that the procedure now being followed by the Board of Education with reference to religious instruction is contrary to the rules of law laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States in the above mentioned suit."

15 ARABS REPORTED KILLED IN JEWISH RAID ON VILLAGE

JERUSALEM, March 13 (AP)—Fifteen Arabs were killed and about 20 wounded at dawn today when a large group of Jews raided an Arab village in Upper Galilee, an official source said.

The village was Al Hussena. Several Arab houses were blown up during the attack, and the village has been evacuated, the source added.

Earlier police had reported that two columns of Jewish fighters with about 100 men each had attacked the Arab village of Kafr Kanna, north of Nazareth, last night. It is in this area that Arab leader Fawzi Bey Al Kaukji has proclaimed martial law.

THE GOEBBELS DIARIES

'Petain Tired Old Man, Knows As Much About Politics as Cow Knows About Spanish,' Goebbels

Propaganda Minister Recorded Roosevelt's Recognition of De Gaulle, 'the Operatic General' — Impressed by Le Havre and Paris Bombings.

This is the sixth of a series of 18 extracts from the forthcoming book, "The Goebbels Diaries"—the day-to-day jottings of Hitler's Minister of Propaganda and Public Enlightenment.

By PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS

(Copyright, 1948.)

MARCH 1, 1942.

THE English parachute raid (at Le Havre) is of course of quite secondary importance militarily. Merely the loss of our "Wuerzburg gadget" may bring up some trouble. . . . (Goebbels does not explain "Wuerzburg gadget.") Undoubtedly the English made this sally only for reasons of prestige. Churchill needs a victory and of course is going to make a terrific sensation of the parachute landing.

Listening to enemy and neutral broadcasts in Italy has been forbidden. At last! At last! It might just as well have been done immediately upon Italy's entry into the war. As it was, the enemy stations did lots of harm in Italy.

We are in a dilemma inasmuch as farmers' wives whose husbands are in the services receive such high allotments that they don't care to work. They would rather go to the nearest larger town and get themselves a hairdo. . . Anyway, these women, who never had much money in their hands before, are simply being spoiled by what they now receive. They are getting used to a standard of living that they won't be able to keep up after the war. That will only make them dissatisfied. They must be kept to their work. We can't lick our food situation if the hands that hitherto worked on the soil don't continue to do their part.

DE GAULLE has been recognized by Roosevelt. The operatic general has for a long time fought for this distinction. It is most revealing, however, and indicative of the weak position in which the United States finds itself that it must publicly link itself up with this character.

(Editor's note: Gen. Charles de Gaulle led the French Resistance Movement and was first chief of state after France's liberation in 1944.)

MARCH 5, 1942.

THE bomb raid on Paris is the most sensational event of the day. Its extent was far greater than at first imagined. The number of casualties is given differently by different sources, but it is certain that there are at least six hundred dead. There is even talk of one thousand dead and several thousand injured. The Vichy Government says the De Gaullists are responsible for this crime. We are exploiting this incident in a big way in our propaganda in France, especially in the areas occupied by us. . . .

Petain has issued a few tearjerking, sentimental communiques, but they show that he is a thoroughly worn-out old man who knows as much about politics as a cow knows about the Spanish language.

MARCH 6, 1942.

OUR losses in the East for the period of June 22, 1941, to Feb. 20, 1942, were 199,448 dead (including 7879 officers), 708,351 wounded (including 20,992 officers), 44,342 missing (including 701 officers)—a total of 952,141 (including 29,572 officers).

Until Feb. 20, 112,627 cases of freezing or frostbite were reported, including 14,357 third degree and 62,000 second degree cases. . . .

According to these figures it appears we had almost one million casualties in our entire campaign in the East, among them about 200,000 fatalities. That is, of course, quite a number. Nevertheless it cannot be compared with the figures of World War I.

There is a lot of sub rosa talk in the neutral countries about the possibilities of a separate peace with the Soviet Union. In London they are already scared about it. Such fear, however, is unwarranted. The Soviet Union will and must be knocked out, no matter how long that may take. The situation is ripe for putting an end to Bolshevism in all Europe, and considering our position we can't give up that aim.

An SD report informed me about the situation in occupied Russia. It is, after all, more unstable than was generally assumed. The partisan danger is increasing week by week. The partisans are in command of large areas in occupied Russia and are conducting a regime of terror there. The national movements, too, have become more insolent than was at first imagined. That applies as well to the Baltic States as to the Ukraine. Everywhere the Jews are busy inciting and stirring up trouble. It is therefore understandable that many of them must pay with their lives for this.

Seldom, I believe, in our generation has spring been awaited so fervently as the one now in the offing. We Germans and untold millions of human beings in the rest of the world expect the decision to come during this spring and summer. We shall do everything possible to fulfill this expectation. I do not dare to prophesy whether we shall succeed. The imponderables involved are so manifold that one can hardly include them as stable factors in a political and military estimate.

One must therefore take this standpoint: Do everything that can be done, miss nothing in the way of preparations, do one's duty wherever necessary, but for the rest enter upon one's work with firm trust in one's own strength. Then success is assured.

MARCH 8, 1942.

WE ARE having great difficulties everywhere. For instance, in one army corps alone 18,000 horses fell during February, 795 of them from exhaustion.

Stalin continues to fabricate pompous and mendacious reports of victories. He has once again encircled our sixteenth Army and destroyed nineteen German divisions. If all had been killed, taken prisoner, or been destroyed whom Stalin claims to have killed, taken prisoner and destroyed since the middle of November of last year, not a single German soldier would be left on Russian territory today.

Whether we shall succeed during the coming spring and summer in defeating the Bolsheviks—this no man can say. We know what we have and what we must risk, but we don't know what the Bolsheviks have and what they can risk. One might conjecture that they risked everything this winter, but one can't claim it with certainty. We must in part rely upon our good luck, and fight. Many situations like that arise in the course of a war.

The victor will always be the one who has the greater amount of courage and the stronger nerves. It is we without a doubt who have both.

PRINCESS HELENA VICTORIA DIES; COUSIN OF KING GEORGE

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—Princess Helena Victoria, a cousin of King George VI and a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, died in her London home today. She was 77 years old. Buckingham Palace sources said she had been in poor health for some time.

She was the daughter of Princess Christian, third daughter of Queen Victoria. For many years she lived in a London West End apartment with her sister, Princess Marie Louise.

She had in the past devoted her energies to social welfare work and had been a leading figure in numerous charities. She was a devotee of the theater, opera and ballet. In recent years, however, all these activities slackened and she withdrew into virtual retirement.

POLITICAL DISORDERS MAR TRUCE IN ITALY

Communist and Others Arrested — Bombs Damage Rightist's Printing Shop.

ROME, March 13 (AP)—Violence is marring Italy's uneasy political truce before the April 18 parliamentary election, although parties have agreed not to disturb one another's meetings.

Yesterday police arrested a Communist leader and three aids in Troia, southeast of Foggia, and accused the men of trying to break up a rally of the rightist bloc.

At Pistoia, north of Rome, five persons were called to trial on charges of causing a disturbance at a political meeting. Ten other persons have been accused of preventing Giuseppe Saragat, anti-Communist Socialist, from speaking there last week.

At Vigevano, southwest of Milan in northern Italy, three bombs were thrown into the printshop of Angelo Crespi, local leader of the Government Christian Democratic party. Damage was extensive but no one was reported injured.

Anti-Communists won by minor margins in the election of labor committees in central Italy and the Island of Sardinia. At Cagliari, Sardinian seaport, workers cast 326 votes for Christian Democratic leaders, 247 for Communists. Reports from Assisi, southwest of Perugia, said an anti-Communist majority was elected in the city chamber of labor.

O'DWYER TO KEEP 5C TRANSIT FARE DESPITE RISE APPROVAL

ALBANY, N.Y., March 13 (AP)—New York's Republican-controlled legislature passed yesterday a Dewey administration bill empowering New York City to increase its transit fare.

Democratic Mayor William O'Dwyer, who had sponsored a fare rise bill that died in committee, announced in New York he would oppose any increase. O'Dwyer's position had been predicted, as a result of the state's refusal to grant a requested $34,000,000 in additional aid.

The legislation empowers the city board of transportation, "with the Mayor's approval," to increase the five-cent fare by an unspecified amount. O'Dwyer's bill would have authorized the board to act by itself.

$27,000,000 INCOME TAX PAYMENT MADE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP) — While you're trying to figure out whether you owe the Government $1.98 or the Government owes you $3.56, stop a moment and consider the case of one income tax payer here: He just mailed the Government a check for $27,000,000.

Collector William J. Pedrick said he couldn't say who sent in the check — such information is confidential. Pedrick's district happens to include Wall Street.

STUDENT SENATE BARS Y.P.C.A. UNIT AT WASHINGTON U. ON RED CHARGE

Unsupported Accusations At Heated Meeting Lead to Overriding of Unanimous Report of Review Board.

The Washington University chapter of Young Progressive Citizens of America was denied recognition by the student Senate at a heated meeting yesterday as a result of unsupported charges that the organization is Communist-dominated.

Vote on the question, over-riding a unanimous report of a special Senate committee, was 36 to 16, with two members of the governing body abstaining and two absent. The Senate's action prohibits the organization from meeting or posting notices on the campus, and from using the name Washington University.

Representatives of fraternities and sororities voted almost unanimously against Y.P.C.A. An anonymous letter, copies of which were sent to all fraternities and sororities several days ago, implied that Y.P.C.A. was planning to abolish those groups.

Discussion was opened by Joe E. Hayes Jr., chairman of the committee which had been appointed by the Senate to review the question after students had objected to a previous Senate vote in favor of recognition.

No Proof of Red Charge Found.

Hayes reported that the committee had been unable to find any evidence to back up the charge that the Y.P.C.A. group was "subversive," and said that, in the committee's opinion, the charge was "not subject to proof."

A second objection which had been raised to Y.P.C.A. was that the political views of the members of the organization differed from those of their opponents, he said. Commenting that the fact undoubtedly was true, he said the committee felt that it was not a valid reason to withhold recognition.

Only one delegate spoke positively against recognition, and he was ruled out of order when he refused to document a statement he made implying Communist-front affiliations to Y.P.C.A. members. He was Don Zahner, representative of Kappa Alpha fraternity, who said he had seen a list of members of a defunct Communist-sponsored group and that it was almost exactly the same as the membership list of Y.P.C.A.

A murmer of protest ran through the meeting at Zahner's statement and members of Y.P.C.A. in the audience shouted a challenge to him to prove it. Under questioning by the Senate chairman, Earl Harbison, Zahner said he had been given the information in confidence and would not reveal his source. Harbison ruled him out of order.

Undocumented Charge No. 2.

Zahner also said he had overheard two Y.P.C.A. members—whom he did not name—say that the aim of the organization was to capture control of the Senate and then throw fraternities and sororities off the campus. This statement met with derisive laughter from the Y.P.C.A. members present.

Other opponents of recognition confined their opposition to the asking of questions, which they directed to Hayes. He declined to attempt to answer most of them, saying they were outside the purview of the committee. They were then directed to the Y.P.C.A. co-chairman, Norman Friedman, 5634 Minerva avenue, a liberal arts sophomore, and Miss Leah Whitley of Smithfield, N.C., a liberal arts junior.

One man asked why Y.P.C.A. members didn't join "one of the regular political parties" if they wanted to be a political group. Friedman replied that they did not want to be bound by the views of any party, but were interested in discussion of both sides of an issue. When another speaker asked whether the purpose of the group was not "political agitation," Friedman said he would call it "political education."

The question of the relation of the local group to other units of the P.C.A. organization was discussed. Miss Whitley said it was the youth branch of the national organization, that it had no connection whatever with the St. Louis chapter of P.C.A. and that it was autonomous in all matters of policy.

Asked how often members of the organization met with the executive committee of the St. Louis P.C.A., Friedman said he had not been there for several months, and Miss Whitley said she never had attended such a meeting. She added that there was neither policy nor record on the matter and suggested that the membership be polled if an answer was wanted.

Plea for "Education" Fails.

In an final appeal for recognition of the group, Hayes, who is a senior in chemistry and the representative of the University Chorus, said the main functions of the group "seem to be education, through open forum and discussion—I think we can use that on the campus." He added that he and the other four members of the committee were in sharp disagreement with the political views of most Y.P.C.A. members.

The motion for recognition which met defeat was made by Miss Jerry Heyne, editor of Student Life, campus newspaper. The paper has campaigned vigorously for recognition on a "free speech" basis.

The Y.P.C.A. issue has aroused great interest on the campus. Y.P.C.A. previously was granted recognition by a 20-19 vote last December.

Killed Following Dice Dispute.

Melvin Brown, Negro, 1201 North Twenty-first street, was shot to death early today in the rear of 2328 Carr street. Police said a woman who lives in the neighborhood told them her husband shot Brown in a dispute. She said Brown had been a participant in a dice game at the house earlier in the evening which ended in a dispute, and returned several hours later. Police are searching for the husband.

ROBBER USING TOY PISTOL HITS WOMAN TWO TIMES WITH IT

Strikes Her When She Tells to 'Get Goin' $40 Taken.

A pistol wrapped in newspapers used in a $40 holdup yesterday at a variety store by a man who struck the wife of the proprietor twice with the toy and escaped.

Mrs. Louis Leon, 4344A Prairie avenue, said the man entered the store at 3904 West Florissant avenue, while her husband was away at a bank. She said he flourished the "weapon" without removing it from the newspaper, and forced her to hand over the $40 from the cash register, then directed her to lie on the floor while he tied a handkerchief over her mouth and bound her hands with cloth.

Mrs. Leon said she easily worked the gag loose, and while her hands were being tied, she told the man, "You've got the money, now get going!" He then struck her on the head with the cast iron toy, she said, and she warded off a second blow by raising her right hand. Mrs. Leon followed the man a short distance as he fled east on East Linton avenue, shouting, "Stop that man, he just held me up!" Police found the toy pistol not far from the scene.

SEED FOR THE BIRDS, NUTS FOR SQUIRRELS SPREAD ON SNOW

The Humane Society of St. Louis dropped 3500 pounds of bird seed in several flights over the St. Louis area yesterday. The seed, donated by a firm here, was dropped to help feed birds that have found themselves almost without food because of the heavy snow.

Sgt. Harold Present, director of the Humane Society, made seven flights over the area in a radius of 40 miles.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Collector of Internal Revenue James P. Finnegan took three of his top assistants and 34 other members of his staff to his office in the basement of the Federal building this morning to take care of eleventh-hour taxpayers who hadn't heard that the office normally is closed on Saturdays.

About 800 persons appeared between 9 a.m. and noon, when the staff ended its volunteer work on what was supposed to be a day off and went home.

Monday is the last day for filing 1947 United States income tax returns without penalty. The collector's office will be open from 8:10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and returns postmarked before midnight Monday will be accepted. Deadline for Missouri income tax returns is March 31.

GETS 30 DAYS FOR TAMPERING WITH AUTO, PETTY LARCENY

James L. Sneed, 1118 Montgomery street, a sheet metal worker, was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse yesterday by Judge Louis Comerford of the Court of Criminal Correction when he pleaded guilty to two charges of tampering with an automobile and petty larceny. The sentences are to be concurrent.

Sneed was arrested Feb. 29 after he had parked his automobile in front of a fire plug in the 3800 block of Natural Bridge avenue. Police watched Sneed step up to another car parked in front of his machine and open the glove compartment. Police also found a stolen license plate on Sneed's automobile.

MAYOR KAUFMANN SENDING GIFT HAT TO GENEVA'S MAYOR

It's Going on Early Plane as World Air Parcel Post Is Started Monday.

A man's felt hat, made in St. Louis and sent to the Mayor of Geneva, Switzerland, as a gift from Mayor Aloys P. Kaufman, will be on one of the first planes to leave New York City next Monday when international air parcel post service is started.

Mayor Kaufman gave the hat, carefully wrapped, to Letter Carrier John W. Stiles of the Plaza branch post office yesterday to be included in the shipment. The scheduled airlines of the United States and the Post Office Department are sponsoring the sending of special gift packages for the first day's flights.

Mayor Kaufmann said he chose the Mayor of Geneva as the recipient of his gift because his own father was a native of Switzerland and he therefore felt special friendship toward that country.

In a letter sent separately by air mail, Mayor Kaufmann asked Mayor Antoine Jolivet, Mayor of Geneva, if a Swiss hat of the type worn in rural Alpine sections could be sent to him. He explained: "I have always wanted one to wear at the meetings and parties given by our good St. Louis Switzers."

POLICE SERGEANT SUSPENDED; TOLD CAPTAIN, 'YOU'RE LOUSY'

Sgt. Leo McKenna, a member of the Police Department for 31 years, was suspended today by Capt. George Dreckshage, who reported that McKenna told him, "You're lousy," after a request by the sergeant was rejected.

The trouble started yesterday, Capt. Dreckshage said, when McKenna asked that one of his men be given a day off Sunday, March 21. Because of the shortage of men, the number of officers given special recreation days is limited, and McKenna's request was complicated by a prior request by another member of the district.

Capt. Dreckshage said he suggested the two officers try to compose the day-off problem, but the suggestion was not satisfactory to Sgt. McKenna, who reopened the subject today. The captain said McKenna refused to write a report on the matter and said he would "see Jerry and get a transfer." The reference was to Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell. The dispute and suspension will be investigated by the inspector's office. McKenna, a former detective, lives at 1323 Louisville avenue.

MAN CHARGED WITH TWO JEWELRY STORE HOLDUPS

Two warrants were issued today against John Carney, Negro, 1529A Cora avenue, charging armed robbery in connection with two holdups of the Mason Jewelry Store, 1812 Franklin avenue. He was arrested yesterday and admitted participating in the holdup of the store Feb. 11, police reported, but denied having robbed the establishment March 5.

Carney was identified by Sigmund Merschen, owner of the store, and Harry Crosby, an optician employed by Merschen, as being one of the two men who held up the store Feb. 11 and the man who held up the store on March 5.

Approximately $468 and several watches and pairs of glasses were taken in the two robberies. Carney told police he didn't know the name of his companion in the first holdup. He said he was a chance acquaintance.

50 SPANISH CLUB MEMBERS ROUTED BY FIRE; $2500 LOSS

Fifty members of the Spanish Club of St. Louis fled from their clubhouse, 7107 Michigan avenue, last night, when fire broke out at the rear of the one-story brick building.

The members were watching a television show in the basement club rooms when they noticed smoke coming from the auditorium upstairs, and found the stage on fire. Two alarms were turned in, bringing six pumpers and three hook-and-ladder companies to the scene. A large crowd of spectators assembled, and it was necessary to reroute Carondelet busses for a short time.

Firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by defective electric wiring on the stage, which was undergoing repairs. Damage was estimated at $2000 to the building and $500 to the contents.

LINDERS GETS 45-YEAR TERM IN WOMAN'S KILLING

New Trial Request to Be Based on Jury Query on Sanity, Defense Lawyer Says.

Edwin Z. Linders Jr. was found guilty of second degree murder in the killing of Mrs. Grace McAndrew, his stepmother's sister, and his punishment was fixed at 45 years in the state penitentiary by a jury in circuit court at Clayton last night.

Linders was charged with first-degree murder, and the state asked the jury of seven men and five women for the death penalty. Linders also asked the jury to order execution when on the witness stand. His defense presented medical testimony that he is suffering from dementia praecox, and asked for acquittal by reason of insanity.

The jury, deliberating about eight hours before returning a verdict at 11 p.m., devoted considerable time to discussion of the defendant's sanity and at one point asked Judge Amandus Brackman for an additional instruction on "legal and medical sanity." Judge Brackman informed the jury it had all the information he was permitted to give.

Discharge of Jury Requested.

Defense Attorney Joseph A. Falzone asked for the discharge of the jury when it discussed the sanity question with the court, contending that Associate Prosecuting Attorney William Hough had made a remark, which the jury overheard. Judge Brackman said he did not hear any remark, and Hough denied to reporters he had said anything. Falzone said he would stress the point in his request for a new trial, to be filed within 30 days.

When the verdict was read, Linders smiled slightly, then placed both hands on Falzone's shoulders and thanked him for "the hard work you did." Falzone said Linders added, "but I didn't care what happened." He was returned to jail pending the outcome of his request for a new trial.

25-Year Minimum Sentence.

Court attaches pointed out that Linders may be required to serve a longer term under a 45-year sentence than he would if punishment had been life imprisonment. They said he cannot expect to be released before he serves nine-twelfths of the 45 years, plus time off for good behavior, or about 25 years. Convicts under life sentence are eligible for parole consideration after 10 years.

Mrs. McAndrew was shot and killed in her home at 122 East Woodbine avenue, Kirkwood, last Sept. 7. Linders, arrested at a downtown hotel, where he was living with his second wife, said he had gone to the McAndrew home to discuss his father's estate and carried a pistol because Mrs. McAndrew and his stepmother, Mrs. Alma Linders, had previously threatened him. After the shooting he threw the pistol into a culvert in the neighborhood and returned to the hotel, where he was arrested.

Linders asserted following his arrest that one motive in the shooting was his belief that his father, operator of a super-market on Manchester road, Kirkwood, had been poisoned. The elder Linders' body was exhumed, but examination showed no trace of poison. The son, who formerly worked in the market, also held the belief he had not received a fair share of his father's estate.

In support of the defense contention that Linders is unbalanced, Falzone introduced testimony that the defendant tossed money to passers-by, ate worms and on one occasion in 1945 stopped at a cemetery to "pick up his mother," who had been buried there three years earlier. Linders, 37 years old, is divorced from his first wife and is the father of a 12-year-old son.

TWO HIT BY AUTO IN SAFETY ZONE SUFFER HEAD INJURIES

Two men suffered severe head injuries early today when they were struck by an automobile when standing in a safety zone on Delmar boulevard near Laurel avenue. They were taken to City Hospital.

One of the men was Raymond Cherry, 4296 Washington boulevard. The other, unidentified, had papers in his pockets which bore the name of Walter Finne, 131 Acme street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Police said the driver, George Grabow, 7105 Stanford avenue, University City, told them he was driving east and saw the men standing in the safety zone. As he passed them, he said, he felt a bump, stopped and found them lying in the street. He was booked for careless driving and suspected of felonious wounding.

Clarence A. VonderHaar, 7908 Minnesota avenue, suffered a fractured nose and head injuries early today when his automobile struck a barricade at Eichelberger street and Tennessee avenue, swerved and hit a tree. Police said the barricade had been erected around a manhole where a sewer is being repaired, and was lighted with three lanterns. VonderHaar was taken to City Hospital.

YOUTH SAYS STABBING OF GIRL WAS ACCIDENT

Cecelia Ellis, 14, in Serious Condition From Wound Suffered in Scuffle.

Cecelia Ellis, 14 years old, was in serious condition at City Hospital after being stabbed last night with a pen knife by 16-year-old Richard Held, 2723 Elliot avenue, with whom she had had "dates."

Cecelia, the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Ellis, 2433 Fall avenue, told police she was walking with another girl in the 2700 block of North Grand boulevard at 9 p.m. when she saw Held and another boy across the street. The girls crossed the street and walked east in Dodier street, where the boys caught up with them. Held asked Cecelia why she had not waited for him at her home, she told officers. She said she informed him she did not care to see him again, then noticed he had a knife in his hand.

Frightened, she ran into a yard at 3208 Dodier street, and Held ran after her. They scuffled for a minute, then returned to the street, Cecelia being unaware she was wounded. Cecelia walked with Held and his companion, Eugene Dickerson, 2803A Elliot avenue, a student at Hadley Vocational School, to Spring avenue and Dodier street, when she noticed blood on her dress. She hurried home, and was taken to the hospital.

Held, who was turned over to Penrose District police by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Held, said the stabbing was accidental. He said he borrowed the knife from Dickerson to repair the zipper on his jacket, and had it in his hand in the scuffle with Cecelia. Dickerson said the knife is his, and examination showed that Held's jacket zipper is defective.

3 MORE ARMY WORKERS HERE DISMISSED AS 'BAD RISKS'

Three employes of the Army Administration Center, Goodfellow and Bircher boulevards, have been dismissed as "bad security risks," in addition to the seven previously fired, it was announced today in Washington.

Although no specific reason for the dismissals was given officially an officer said those dismissed were charged with juggling records at the center to hide the records of Communists, and may have tampered with government checks. They have the right of appeal to Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall.

Names of the additional persons dismissed were not announced. Col. Charles D. Carle, commander of the records administration center, and Col. L. H. Sims, commander of the finance center, referred inquiries to Washington. At the time the original dismissals were announced on Feb. 27, informed sources said the cases of 26 persons in addition to the seven dismissed had been turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for further study.

KILLER OF EX-ST. LOUISAN GETS STAY OF EXECUTION

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 13 (UP)—A stay of execution was granted yesterday to William Jerome Phyle, confessed holdup man and killer, who had been scheduled to die in California's gas chamber at midnight last night for the killing of Elmer E. Frazee, former St. Louisan.

The stay was granted after the United States Supreme Court approved Phyle's application for a hearing.

Frazee, a maintenance man at a federal housing project, was killed and robbed of $1.25 Nov. 24, 1945. Phyle pleaded guilty and was sent to a state hospital, but transferred to San Quentin for execution after he was found sane.

The victim lived in St. Louis, where he was a sign painter, until 1945.

HOUSE FACES SHOWDOWN OVER LOCAL RENT CONTROL

Democrats Plan Fight on Provision Stripping U.S. of Power in Bill for Year Extension.

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—A fight shaped up in the House today on a plan to give local boards full power to increase rents or lift rent ceilings.

The House Banking Committee voted 12 to 8 late yesterday to strip federal officials of major authority over rents and transfer the decision-making power to local boards appointed by state governors.

After writing this provision in the Senate-approved rent bill, the committee approved the measure 13 to 3. The bill would continue the modified controls until March 31, 1949.

Representative Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma, questioned the constitutionality of the proposal to confer virtually unlimited powers on local boards. He added that the amendment would "knock an awful hole in effective rent control."

He said he would ask the House to restore the Senate provision continuing the federal rent administrator's powers to decide whether local boards are justified in asking rent increases or decontrol of an area.

Here are the other provisions of the bill approved by the House committee:

1. Rents could be increased 15 per cent where tenants and landlords agreed on a lease running through 1949. However, tenants who agreed to a 15 per cent increase last year—under the present law—could not be charged another increase during the life of the new law.

2. For those tenants who have agreed to a 15 per cent increase in return for leases running through 1948 rents would be "frozen" from Jan. 1, 1949, to the end of March 1949. Then rent control would end for them.

3. Generally speaking, there could be no increase before March 31, 1949, unless tenants consented or unless the local rent boards decide to grant such an increase or approved decontrol of the area entirely. The House bill follows the Senate measure rather closely in the procedures for "voluntary" agreements between landlords and tenants.

4. The House committee bill specifically directs the federal administrator to give relief to landlords who can prove they are suffering hardships. The Senate measure would require rent increases where landlords could show they are losing.

TWO BOYS DROWN WHEN LAKE ICE BREAKS

Inhalator Fails to Revive Scouts Who Lose Lives at Illinois Camp.

Two boys from O'Fallon, Ill., drowned today in a lake at Camp Joy near Carlyle, Ill., when they attempted to walk across a thin sheet of ice covering the lake. Carlyle is about 50 miles east of St. Louis.

The boys were William Bittles, 13 years old, and James Tilley Jr., 12. They were at the camp with a group of 10 or 12 Boy Scouts.

The boys drowned in water about 15 feet deep. An inhalator was used for about one and one half hours in an unsuccessful attempt to revive them. Wilson Moore, scout commissioner, said that all the boys had been warned to stay off the ice.

BURGLARS HAUL SAFE AWAY FROM TOWN'S POST OFFICE

Burglars last night who broke into the post office at Leasburg, Mo., 80 miles southwest of St. Louis, hauled away a 400-pound safe containing $50 cash, $445 in stamps and several non-negotiable Government bonds.

The safe, with the combination knocked off and the contents missing, was found today in a field about four miles southeast of Leasburg. Entrance to the post office was gained by forcing a rear window. The safe was rolled out a door and hauled away in an automobile.

DR. JAMES TWITCHELL FUNERAL

Funeral services for Dr. James Twitchell, a practicing physician in Belleville from 1900 until his retirement about 15 years ago, will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Gundlach & Co. undertaking establishment in Belleville. Burial will be in Walnut Hill Cemetery.

Dr. Twitchell, 78 years old, died of a heart ailment Thursday night at his home, 205 South High street. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bertha L. Twitchell; a brother, Dr. Benjamin E. Twitchell, retired Belleville physician; and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Wiley Cochran of Balboa Island, Cal.

Alternate Annapolis Appointee.

WOMAN, 28, MUST RETURN $100,000 IN GIFTS TO MAN, 64

Rich Cosmetics Maker Alleges She Made 'False Professions of Love.'

LOS ANGELES, March 13 (AP)—Blonde Dorothy Burks Stoner, 28 years old, must return gifts valued at $100,000 to 64-year-old Andrew Norman, wealthy cosmetics manufacturer.

A Superior Court judge yesterday directed restoration of the gifts Norman alleged were obtained through "false professions of love" and "female arts."

Judge William S. Baird ruled that Norman had given Mrs. Stoner the presents in anticipation of marriage when he was divorced from his estranged wife, Merle Norman, his cosmetics firm partner.

They include a fashionable home and furnishings valued at $82,000 and an $18,350 diamond ring. The judge ruled Mrs. Stoner may retain a $2500 sealskin coat and other clothing.

Judge Baird said Mrs. Stoner was "not an innocent girl without any experience."

"Nor was Norman an inexperienced man," he added. "They knew what they were doing and were very close together in their plans."

Mrs. Stoner testified she married Earl Stoner, an automobile distributor, in September 1946, after quarreling with Norman over whether he was going to get a divorce. She said she had been willing to marry Norman but he "never gave me a definite answer."

$13,088 State Inheritance Tax.

A state inheritance tax of $13,088 was assessed yesterday against the estate of Theodore Rassieur, St. Louis lawyer, who died Nov. 24, 1946. The assessment was made by Thomas J. Boland, probate appraiser, who reported that in addition the federal estate tax would amount to $232,284. The estate was appraised at $749,436, with deductions exempt from taxes of $283,077. Rassieur lived at 3663 Flora place. His widow, Mrs. Carrie Rassieur, is principal beneficiary under his will.

BODY OF EX-ST. LOUIS WOMAN BELIEVED FOUND IN RUINS

The body of Mrs. Ida Levi Engel, formerly of St. Louis, was believed to be one of two recovered today from the ruins of the Highland Hospital in Asheville, N.C. The other was thought to be that of Mrs. F. Scott Fitzgerald, widow of the novelist.

Mrs. Engel, a patient in the mental hospital for several years, is the mother of Mrs. William E. Shamski, 7659 Carrswold drive, Clayton, whose husband is an executive at Stix, Baer & Fuller department store.

Six bodies have been recovered. Nine women patients were believed killed in the blaze which destroyed the hospital early Thursday. The search for the remaining bodies was delayed when the Department of Public Safety would not allow firemen to search in the part of the rubble believed to hold the three missing bodies.

BOY ON SLED HURT SERIOUSLY IN COLLISION WITH AUTO

William E. Walters, 12 years old, suffered concussion when the sled on which he was coasting collided with an automobile at Benson and Chaucer avenues, St. Louis county, today. He is in serious condition at St. Louis County Hospital.

Edward Hampson, 8538 St. Charles Rock road, the driver, told deputies the sled struck a front wheel of his machine, throwing the boy to the street. Hampson was released on $500 bond without charge. William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Walters, 10218 St. Catherine lane, St. Louis county.

TRUMAN IN OREGON PRIMARY

SALEM, Ore., March 13 (UP)—President Truman's name was entered yesterday in the Oregon primary election but backers of Henry A. Wallace withheld their candidate's name from this first far western test for presidential aspirants.

Truman's name was entered by petitions shortly before the state filing deadline. Republicans already have two candidates—Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Thomas E. Dewey of New York—on the May 21 ballot.

GLEAMING GOLD TOOTH GIVES ROBBER AWAY

He Admits 3 Holdups After Police Note Correspondence With Description.

A Negro, arrested today when two policemen noticed a gold tooth gleaming in his mouth, was identified as the "gold-tooth" robber in three recent loan company holdups.

The prisoner, who said he is Joseph T. Scott, admitted the robberies, police reported, and said he was planning another holdup this morning when Patrolmen John Weingart and David Cuddy of Central District arrested him. The officers saw him talking to another Negro at Jefferson avenue and Walnut street, noted his resemblance to descriptions of the "gold-toothed" robber, and then saw the tooth. A loaded pistol was found in Scott's pocket.

Employes of the Time Finance Corp., 3400 Lindell boulevard, held up Feb. 13 for $258 and again on Feb. 27 for $373, identified the Negro. He also was identified in the $140 robbery at the Royal Loan Co., 1400 Olive street, on March 5.

The prisoner and Casimir L. Musielak, manager of the Time Finance Corp., enjoyed a hearty laugh together at police headquarters when Musielak recalled that the robber had remarked on his second visit that "pickings are too slim here, I'm going to California." The prisoner added that he "still wants to go to California."

When police picked him up, the Negro was preparing to hold up the Elk's Clothing and Furniture Co., 2610 Market street. He told police, they reported, that he had looked the place over previously.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Communism, a Stimulus

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The average American should look upon recent Communist victories in Europe as a great boon instead of with alarm. Viewed from the standpoint of his own self-interest, the more pressure the Communists put on capitalism, the more effective our democracy must become to keep Communism from capturing the American mind.

It means capitalism must find the answers, and quickly, to the housing shortage, to continued full employment, to the end of recurrent depressions, to subnormal education, to inadequate medical care, to social security for all workers and the end of undemocratic discrimination of all kinds.

Communism is a great people's movement. It may not have the answers to the things people demand, but capitalism did not have the answers, either, else it would have had more support in Europe. In a democracy, the welfare of the individual is paramount. Capitalism must see to it that the individual is paramount, else we may all be calling one another "comrade" here, too!

Mrs. McCollum's Achievement

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

With sincerity and humble humility I bow my head and remove my hat to the achievement of Mrs. Vashti McCollum, who won the Supreme Court verdict against religious instruction in the schools.

While I seldom agree with the Post-Dispatch in its editorial wisdom, I am very sympathetic to your editorial, "A Victory for Freedom."

ROBOSCAR.

A Soldier for President

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I cannot understand why some people oppose Gen. MacArthur's candidacy on the grounds that he is a military man and should stay with his job till it is finished. Many people clamored for Gen. Eisenhower to be a candidate, and certainly the two men's qualifications are similar.

The argument that military men do not belong in the Government does not hold any more, as they are well trained in world affairs. Our present Secretary of State is a soldier.

Gen. MacArthur has said he will serve if the people want him, but will not carry on an active campaign. I think it is regrettable that Gen. Eisenhower did not become a candidate under the same conditions. We need more intelligent and forceful men like the generals in our Government today.

MRS. R. P.

Why Interfere?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Is freedom of religion having eight men of the Supreme Court rule against having religious education in the schools? According to the Constitution, education should be left to the state. If a state wants religious education, why should the United States Government interfere?

J. HORN.

The Pope vs. Joe

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

What? No outcry from you, Bishop Oxnam, The Christian Century, The Churchman or The Nation over the Catholic Church's "political interference" in the fateful April 18 Italian elections?

Come, now, boys, "let fly," as you're prone to do, now! Surely you are not going to "hold your fire" while the old Church throws herself into the battle in a "last-ditch" attempt to stop "Joe," and then "let loose" on her if she fails—or are you?

That the world's leading statesmen (including our own) and all intelligent men of good will recognize this "political interference" by the Pope as practically the only hope of stopping "Joe" in the Italian emergency is a foregone conclusion.

Better get down on your knees, boys—all of you—and pray, with me, as you've never prayed before, that this "political interference" by your wise but hard pressed old "Mother"—the Catholic Church—may be successful, come April 18.

L. M. G.

MacArthur? No!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I was under MacArthur's command in the Pacific. I am going to vote against MacArthur, no matter who runs against him.

He had the people back here full of propaganda about his wonderful leadership, intimating what a great general he was—undoubtedly already laying the foundation for his entrance into the presidential nomination field. He was arrogant, egotistical and suffered from delusions of grandeur. He imposed a strict censorship on all news and made sure that the newspaper releases played up his role when, to the estimation of many, myself included, he never made a real far-reaching military decision.

When the marines made a landing on an island, he made it known that they were part of "his" army. When the army landed somewhere, "Doug" would be sure to leave the impression that it was his brilliant decision. News reports would come back about how MacArthur waded ashore with the assault troops. The only time he ever waded ashore with the troops was when it was fairly well established there were no Japs for miles around.

From a propaganda standpoint, it was necessary to make the people believe he was a great leader. But the war is over.

Let the people in on the facts. MacArthur has dictatorial leanings and is incompetent to lead our country.

DAVID H. NEACE.

Progress in Europe

The shades of Charlemagne, Henry IV of France, Sully, Victor Hugo and Aristide Briand must have looked on approvingly as Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg completed the draft of a 50-year treaty of economic, political and military union. This treaty will not create the united Europe of which statesmen have dreamed, but it is a major step in that direction.

The treaty reportedly contains a clause permitting other European nations to join the alliance. If they are wise, the other nations free to do so will come in. They will have opportunity to discuss the question when they meet in Paris Monday for the second conference on the European Recovery Program.

Free people everywhere applaud these steps toward the unification of Western Europe. The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia and Radio Moscow attack the treaty, of course, and—from their point of view—with good cause. The pact, they say, "is fraught with dangerous consequences to peace." But it is dangerous to peace only if Communist imperialism insists on sweeping westward in face of the protective alliance.

The Soviet propagandists see in the movement for Western European union the hand of the United States. In this, too, they are right. They are wrong only in impugning our motives. In his great speech in the Senate, Mr. Vandenberg said of the September meeting of the Marshall plan nations:

> It was a historic moment. Some day a United States of Europe may look back upon it as we do the Annapolis Conference which preceded the Constitutional Convention at Philadelphia.

Senator Vandenberg opposed Senator Fulbright's efforts to place Congress on record as favoring the creation of a United States of Europe, and has at last persuaded him to withdraw the amendment which he had offered to this effect to the European aid bid. Nevertheless, there has never been any doubt that Senator Vandenberg and other Senate leaders of both parties see the Marshall plan as a major step in the promotion of European unity.

In his discussion with Senator Fulbright, Mr. Vandenberg said, "It is practically the universal opinion that the consolidation of the Western European countries along the line of which the Senator (Fulbright) is speaking is the pattern of realistic hope." He opposed the Fulbright resolution only because, in his opinion, the explicit statement of such a political purpose would prompt three or four nations most closely threatened by Soviet military power to withdraw from the Marshall plan.

The outlying British Commonwealths—South Africa, Canada, Australia and New Zealand—have shown as much interest as has the United States in the movement for European union. Their reason is doubtless the same—they want Western Europe to unite to preserve itself in peace, prosperity and happiness.

The drafting of the Five-Power treaty and the agreement to unshackle the industries of the Ruhr under a scheme of international control have come about as immediately as they have in reply to Russia's conquest of Czechoslovakia and its intimidation of Finland. Additional moves needed to consolidate and strengthen Free Europe should not wait upon further acts of aggression from the Kremlin. The West should seize and keep the initiative.

Teachers Could Be People, Too

It is nice to see that the school board of Atlanta, Ga., has decided teachers will be allowed to smoke. It would be even nicer if the board would go still further and correct a multitude of sins against teachers by decreeing that teachers shall be allowed to be human beings.

The theory behind the many proscriptions on public school teachers' conduct is all very well. It is that the teacher should set a good example for the student. In practice, the example is something else entirely. What the harassed, bullied teacher teaches the students by his example is that anyone weak enough to let other people push him around and determine the most intimate details of his private life will not lead an altogether happy one. And if that isn't a bad example, we will engage to eat it, raw.

As for teachers who naturally conform to the typical school board's notion of a teacher, they are, fortunately, rare, and we do not believe they are likely to set students any example, good, bad, or indifferent. No one really wants to imitate perfection. It takes a few amiable vices to rumple up an individual's character a little and make it wearable.

If the jot of tolerance which the Atlanta board has shown could be built onto everywhere, teachers might be helped at their task of teaching by being enabled to meet students on their own imperfect—but nevertheless their—level.

Maybe We're Old-Fashioned

This year it will cost $21.50 to sit down at the gridiron dinner of the Advertising Club of St. Louis. No doubt the food will be excellent and the entertainment laugh-provoking as usual; they should be for that kind of money. Or, in this period of inflation, are we clinging to an old-fashioned notion of the value of a double sawbuck?

Not Much to Do

Dr. Samuel Green, promoter of the Ku Klux Klan, may have been playing the band-wagon game when he claimed there is a resurgence of Ku Kluxism all over the country. Courage that thrives best under masks also thrives best in numbers. But though there may be considerably less than the groundswell which the promoter claims, it is distressing that there should be enough to exaggerate about in these crucial days.

As everyone knows, the Klan exists at all because it panders to prejudice. Another reason, perhaps not so well known, was given by Dr. Green. It exists because there are people who have nothing else to do, or who think they haven't. The promoter said only about 10 per cent of the membership in cities regularly attend meetings but the attendance averages 70 per cent in rural localities "because they don't have so much to do."

Is it conceivable that any American, in these days when his country is confronted by the gravest and most baffling issues at home and abroad, can think he has nothing better to do than don a sheet and hood and try to scare people whose ideas he disagrees with? Is it conceivable that any American can fail to see that Ku Kluxism weakens the ability of his country to cope with these grave domestic and international problems?

Ku Kluxism has always been a dangerous folly, but there can hardly have been a time when it was more so, or more plainly so, than today. We do not believe Dr. Green will find as many as he thinks who value their time so little, or who know so little of their country's needs, that they will be diverted by small hates from the great and challenging issues of the day.

Help or Hindrance?

One of the most fateful elections in the modern history of Western Europe will be held in Italy, April 18. It will decide whether that country will have a Communist-dominated Government or whether it will remain in the orbit of the West. Under the circumstances, every legitimate weapon should be used to defeat Italian Communists at the polls. Is it legitimate, however, for the Catholic Church to throw itself into the campaign, and will such interference advance or impede the anti-Communist cause?

Cardinal Schuster of Milan, where Communism is strong, ordered priests in his diocese to refuse absolution to Communists. This is a severe penalty. It means that thousands of Milanese Italians, who are Catholics as well as Communists, will be unable to go to confession for forgiveness of their sins. It is a step just short of the dreaded final verdict of excommunication. Might not this cause resentment among Italians generally? Cardinal Schuster also decreed that a vote for Communists was "gravely illicit for the faithful." In other words, he ordered Catholics not to vote for Communist candidates under pain of sin.

Shortly afterward, the sacred Consistorial Congregation of the Church informed Catholics not only in Italy, but throughout the world, that they may vote only for candidates who will "respect and defend the rights of the church." This sweeping order, if taken literally by American Catholics, might cause great perplexity, confusion and discontent. Many American Catholics may want to vote for Henry Wallace, but might feel they cannot do so because he is friendly to Communism and has Communist support.

The Vatican's paper, Osservatore Romano, has backed Cardinal Schuster's stand, and orders from other high churchmen have gone even further. The Bishop of Como has not only proscribed the Communist party, but other parties of the left as well. On top of all this, the Pope, in his annual Lenten address, while asserting that he speaks on theological instead of political grounds, has warned Catholics to vote against the Communist party, and has even denounced as a sin failure to go to the polls because of "indolence or cowardice."

These tactics of the Church have brought strong repercussions in Italy. They have been denounced as an unwarranted interference of the Church in politics and a violation of Italy's electoral laws. Moreover, it should be remembered that Italian Communists are not Russians but Italians; that perhaps 90 per cent of them are members of the Catholic Church; that they feel they have a right to their own political views as well as to their own religious views. Italian Catholics who belong to the Communist party insist that the two affiliations are compatible.

While the Church argues that its open participation in the election against Communism is a theological rather than a political matter, there are even many anti-Communist Italians who will regard that participation as an encroachment by the Church in the political field. Therefore, it may be that, instead of advancing anti-Communism in the elections of April 18, the Church will do that cause harm.

News Suppression by MacArthur

Gen. MacArthur is wrong, in our opinion, in his order banning from the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes and from the Armed Forces Radio in Japan the news that anti-MacArthur veterans' clubs are being organized in the United States to oppose his nomination for President.

A general in uniform and in active service is at best on questionable ground when he becomes a candidate for political office. But having done this, Gen. MacArthur is in fairness bound to allow the news of how his candidacy is received to be as fully disseminated as is news affecting rival candidates.

The occupation forces in Japan are citizens and voters and are entitled to the news. If Gen. MacArthur believes that impartial news treatment might damage his prestige as commander, he has two alternatives: He should give up either his political ambitions or his Army command.

The Real Natural Gas Issue

Federal Power Commissioners Olds and Draper have a very good reason for preferring outright repeal of the Natural Gas Act to either of the two proposed amendments.

As they wrote to Senator Stewart, who is a member of the committee studying the amendments, either proposed change would wreck the act by making economic competition the only control over natural gas rates. The public would be fooled into thinking it still had "protection against . . . unreasonable rates" because something called a Natural Gas Act was still on the statute books.

All these two commissioners are asking is that the fight be fought out in the open and on the actual issue.

It is surprising that any member of the FPC would willingly have his agency stripped of the authority to perform a duty for which the public holds it responsible, yet that is the position of Chairman Smith and Commissioner Wimberly. They are actually sponsors of one of the amendment bills. Their position is reported to be shared by President Truman's nominee to fill the vacant fifth commissionership, Burton N. Behling of Illinois.

As in the case of the tidelands oil grab—which has some of the same sponsors, including Edwin W. Pauley, millionaire California oilman—the attempt to kill off federal control of natural gas rates is being made under the pretense that it is something other than an effort to open up a great natural resource to unbridled private exploitation. They pretend that the amendments offered by Senator Moore, an Oklahoma oilman, and Representative Rizley, another Oklahoman, and by Commissioners Smith and Wimberly, are merely intended to perfect the Natural Gas Act. Actually they are repealers.

If the sponsors want to go ahead with these proposals, they will have to take the onus for trying to deprive the public of federal protection in natural gas rates. Commissioners Olds and Draper have seen to that in tearing away the deception and showing the full gravity of the issue. They have also given the Senate ample reason for finding out whether Nominee Behling would protect the public's interests or the natural gas companies' interests if his nomination were confirmed.

For Europe's Little Children

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Those without responsibility for the Continent's tragedy are its worst victims; United Nations' feeble aid effort will run out in six months; new plan enables individuals to act where governments have failed; Scandinavians already sending serum and codliver oil.

Chester Bowles, Chairman of the International Advisory Committee for the UN Appeal for Children, in the New York Times Magazine

LONDON.

Since my last trip to Europe a year ago, I have had to depend on newspaper stories, statistical reports and the accounts given by returning travelers. All these left me totally unprepared for many of the things I found.

Above everything else, I was impressed with the courage and intensity with which these people are attacking their problems, and the hard work being put forth by men, women and children, many of them weakened by malnutrition.

Chester Bowles

After the United Nations won the war the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration was established to repair some of the damage and heal some of the wounds. Every nation gave 1 per cent of its national income to UNRRA, and five billion dollars was raised.

Cutting Down on Aid

UNRRA was terminated, but the special needs of children and adolescents, of nursing and pregnant mothers, were still recognized by the United Nations, which established the International Children's Emergency Fund and the United Nations Appeal for Children.

A plan was projected whereby the Children's Fund would give aid to 20,000,000 children for a full year, with food, clothing and medical care. To finance this program the governments of the United Nations were expected to contribute $400,000,000. In two or three years it was thought that the gravest phase of the emergency would be over, and that the war-ravaged countries would be well on their way toward self-sufficiency again.

But the governments provided only a bare dribble of funds. Something vital in human awareness had disappeared with UNRRA and less than one-tenth of the needed sum was collected after months of effort. A series of tragic choices had to be made. Only 4,000,000 children could be cared for out of the tens of millions who badly needed help. The one-year program had to be cut to six months. Clothing and medicine had to be virtually eliminated from the program.

For a Better World

The six-month lease on life for a relatively small number of needy children in 12 countries has already started. A small hard-working staff of the Children's Fund is seeing to it that every pound of lard, horse meat, codliver oil and every ounce of powdered milk—the major supply item—go directly to children and infants. Supervised group feedings guarantee that none of the supply can enter black market channels. The United Nations Appeal for Children seeks to extend that six-month lease on life, and to reach more children—by asking individual men and women all over the world to fill in the gap left by their Government.

At present it appears that national committees of the United Nations Appeal for Children in at least 14 European countries will participate in the campaign for funds. The Danes already have given great quantities of anti-tubercular serum. From the people of Norway have come codliver oil and offers of more.

The children of Europe and Asia are living in a world of misery created by our generation. It is our responsibility that they shall have an opportunity to build a new world infinitely better than the one they know today.

A Glance at the Phone Co.'s Report

From the Tulsa Tribune

On Sept. 30, 1947, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. filed petitions with state regulatory bodies in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas seeking general increases in telephone rates.

Since then Bell attorneys have gone before the various state boards and eloquently presented a pitiful picture of the financial plight of their company. Their stories have been most moving.

But not until this week did the company make public the actual record of its financial operations in 1947. With their applications for rate increases still pending, Bell officials strove to make the report as discouraging as possible, but even on their own figures, it is apparent that the telephone business in this part of the country is a very sound enterprise and in no sense in a financial crisis.

They took $50,000,000 worth of Southwestern stock at par ($100 per share), and they increased their cash advances from $10,800,000 to $54,200,000.

Southwestern demonstrated that this confidence was justified by:

Paying $12,700,000 in dividends at the rate of $5.75 per $100 share during the year.

Contributing $7,291,226 to an employes' pension fund which was already so large that the interest revenue during the year exceeded disbursements by nearly $100,000.

Making a license fee payment of $2,576,415 to A.T. & T. in addition to the dividend on the stock held by the parent company.

Adding $14,340,282 to reserves for depreciation and amortization to bring these two items to a total of $203,126,223.

Increasing its total assets by $112,649,839, nearly $5,000,000 more than the $93,400,000 received from A.T.& T. and the $14,340,282 set aside in reserves combined.

Deducting only $211,532 from a surplus account which still contains $18,836,397.

Southwestern officials said the 1947 earnings were the lowest in the company's history. If this be so, it goes to show that telephone customers have been taken for a terrific cleaning in years gone by.

Old Man River and His Tows

TOWBOAT RIVER, by Edwin and Louise Rosskam. (Duell, Sloan & Pearce, Inc., New York.)

Lewis Gannett in the New York Herald Tribune.

Mark Twain wouldn't know the old river; and Old Man River himself can hardly remember the days when those puny little packets that Mark Twain boasted of piloting used to float down on the high water. The tows that today ply the Mississippi and its major upstream link, the Ohio, are frequently longer than the Queen Mary herself. The river carried more traffic in World War II than it ever had in its entire history—30 billion ton-miles of freight in 1944 alone.

Edwin Rosskam

The rococo paddle-wheel river boats are gone—all but a few cherished museum pieces. It's a towboat river today—though towboat doesn't mean, anywhere in the Mississippi river basin, what it sounds like to an effete Easterner. Your modern towboat is a sturdy little Diesel-engined pusher, with a nest of steel barges lashed together off its bow. There are, to be sure, a few stern-wheel pushers still in business.

Mark Twain would have enjoyed looking at the Rosskams' pictures. What he'd say about the young pilot who thought piloting the Mississippi not so hard as Mark Twain had made out—that is another matter. In Mark Twain's day the river channels weren't marked out with buoys and a pilot couldn't talk from his bridge to his home office by radio-phone.

* * *

The Ohio river ran its own sweet—or sour—course, unaided by 46 sets of dams and locks. The young pilot might reply that it isn't easy to maneuver a long string of barges into a lock, either, and furthermore, that Mark Twain never had to contend with those blights of the modern riverman's life—railroad bridges.

Piloting is still a skilled profession, and when the river decides to change its mind or its route, even the buoys can be wrong. It's as cold and wet and dirty as ever when a river hand has to scramble ashore to tie half a load of barges to the trees while the pusher shoves a lighter load into a lock or up a stretch of swift water.

Your modern river boat has women cooks and female chambermaids who work with vacuum cleaners; the drinking water is stone-filtered, and union wages are better than many jobs ashore. The boys drink fresh milk aboard ship today, too.

* * *

"Towboat River" is primarily a picture-book, and a good one. But the Rosskams—a husband-and-wife photographer-team—after several trips up and down the rivers (chiefly, apparently, the Ohio) on an industrial-photography job for the Standard Oil Co., returned with a speech-recording team, and made records of river speech and river memories.

Out of those records they have woven the text of their book. It hasn't, of course, the flavor of Mark Twain's book, or even of Captain Way's "Log of the Betsy Ann" and "Pilotin' Comes Natural" or Clark Firestone's "Sycamore Shores." Those books were written by men with long river memories, and the Rosskams were river visitors, however long they stayed. Also they write of the river as it is today, when a man who worked on it before the dams were built, just after World War I, is an old-timer. It's a different world and less picturesque.

The Rosskams have recorded it honestly and effectively. They prove that Old Man River's habits of life are changing.

Hercule Poirot on the Trail

THERE IS A TIDE, by Agatha Christie. (Dodd, Mead and Co., New York.)

The latest mystery to be solved by that adroit detective, Hercule Poirot, and for many mystery readers that is enough. This time the setting is the little English town of Warmsley Heath, where wealthy Robert Underhay met his death under circumstances that puzzle Scotland Yard.

Pitfalls of U.S. Policy in China

IT often seems as though this country were fated to go on repeating a pattern of error—and this when the margin for error has been reduced to the vanishing point. Consider China. No one disputes that some kind of positive action by America in China is essential, but when it comes to the proper approach to that vast, chaos-ridden country, then the pulling and the hauling begin.

We see furious partisans of China—American partisans—rushing into action. Lieut. Gen. Wedemeyer embraces China at the strategic level. The missionary crusader, Representative Judd of Minnesota, embraces an idealized China on a high moral level.

Wedemeyer.

These volunteer policy-makers proclaim that the Nationalist China—the China of Chiang Kai-shek—is essential to us. "We need that China," they say, in accents ranging from the urgent to the shrill and hysterical. They are not, of course, the only partisans to embrace China. There are others with a more practical and profitable motive whose self-interest is too obvious.

Parallel With Greece.

The parallel with Greece is striking. Just a year ago, President Truman went before Congress to appeal for aid to Greece and Turkey. His appeal was couched in much the same terms used today by proponents of aid to China.

It was a three-alarm fire. Greece was essential to the United States. Greek democracy must be preserved at any cost—to us.

Given the political situation in Washington, with an opposition Congress containing a hard core of old-time isolationism, perhaps this approach was necessary. But the effect in Greece was most unfortunate.

Expect No Gratitude.

The politicians in Athens, who are as sharp as they come, understood how we had committed ourselves to them, in proclaiming that Greece was vital to American security. The Government had attached no conditions to the aid to be given.

Consequently, it has proved extremely difficult to bring about any changes in the regime in Athens. After prolonged and patient prodding by the American Aid Administrator, Dwight Griswold, the liberal leader Themistocles Sophoulis was accepted as Premier.

But what this change really meant in the way of wider acceptance by the Greek people is still a question. Some observers believe Sophoulis is a prisoner of the Royalist party of Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris.

Today the Royalist party press attacks the United States in almost the same language used by the Communists—as imperialist intruders. It is more or less spelled out that the United States needs Greece more than Greece needs us. No one should be surprised, since that's what President Truman in effect told the Greeks a year ago.

Strings on Our Aid.

Now, Greece is a small country in a key area. Its population is something more than 7,000,000. A mistake there was not irretrievable. A great deal has been learned in the Greek experiment.

China, however, is another matter. Some 500,000,000 people, most of them living close to the survival line, occupy the great expanse that is loosely called China. A mistake committing us irretrievably to the present regime could have the most disastrous and far-reaching consequences.

While no such comparison can be valid, there is some reason to believe the Chiang Kai-shek regime is more corrupt and has less popular support than the group in power in Athens a year ago. Conditions must be attached to any aid given to Chiang Kai-shek.

Anti-Western Feeling.

Reforms must at least be undertaken in good faith. Otherwise any United States aid will be thrown away. Not even in Nationalist China will it help to win the mass of the Chinese people.

There are warning signs which must not be ignored. Some weeks ago, anti-British riots occurred in Nanking and other cities. The easy thing was to dismiss these as Communist-inspired. But the British knew that these demonstrations could not be lightly dismissed. They came out of deep resentment of foreign exploitation and doubt of a government that seemed to lean on foreign support.

The question of what can be done for Nationalist China should not be fought over in partisan politics. Of primary importance is the reconstruction of that area where American interests are immediately, directly and vitally concerned—Western Europe. Anything that diverts attention from that vital goal serves by that much to weaken America's position in the world.

NEW YORK PAPERS DENY CHARGES OF UNION 'BUSTING'

They Tell ITU That Closed Shop, Other Rights Will Be Restored if They Become Legal.

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—New York's 14 daily newspapers assured their 2500 printers today the closed shop and "other historic rights" now barred by law would be restored to future work contracts should they become legal again.

The offer was posted on bulletin boards in the composing rooms of all 14 papers. It was made, said William Mapel, vice chairman of the Publishers' Association of New York City, "to dispel once and for all charges that the publishers are 'out to bust the union.'"

The "union-busting" charges were made by the printers' AFL International Typographical Union after the newspapers filed unfair labor practice charges with the National Labor Relations Board. The union was accused of refusing to bargain for a legal contract.

The contract between the union's local and the newspapers expires March 31. Mapel has declared that the publishers are faced with a strike after that date because, under the Taft-Hartley law, they are not permitted to sign a new pact for a closed shop. The union, the publishers charge, insists on a closed shop.

The newspapers' counter-offer specifies that the closed shop and other rights would be restored automatically "if the highest court or the Congress were to repeal, amend or rule unconstitutional pertinent provisions of the Taft-Hartley law."

The same proposal has been made to stereotypers, pressmen and mailers, who are represented by other unions, Mapel said.

"The proposal we have offered the printers and the three other unions proves that we have acted in good faith and strictly within the law," he said.

The newspapers previously had announced that in the event of a strike they intended to continue publication, using engravings of typewritten copy as a means of by-passing the composing rooms. That method now is being used by Chicago newspapers currently involved in a work stoppage of I.T.U. printers.

Final Oral Arguments in Taft-Hartley Case.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 13 (AP)—One of the first courtroom fights under the Taft-Hartley act ends today—the 11-day hearing of the injunction cast against the AFL International Typographical Union.

All the evidence is in. United States District Judge Luther M. Swygert was ready to hear the final oral arguments from these opposing lawyers: Winthrop Johns and David P. Findling, representing the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board; Gerhard Van Arkel, representing the union.

ITU President Woodruff Randolph was the final witness. He was questioned yesterday by both Johns and Judge Swygert.

The government has accused Randolph and the union's other national officers of trying, in illegal ways, to cause newspaper publishers to continue a closed shop condition under which only ITU printers work in the shops.

Swygert is asked to stop this by issuing a temporary injunction. Yesterday he indicated he wouldn't rule on the question right away, but would give the lawyers time to prepare final written statements.

Swygert, in questioning Randolph, said that under the Taft-Hartley act an employer must not discriminate against non-union men in hiring and that a union must not force him to discriminate.

Then the judge asked: "Aren't you required to follow that?"

Randolph replied: "As a general statement, I would say yes. But it's two-pronged. He (the employer) hasn't all the rights in the world, we have some."

The witness then said publishers could accept the contract the union is offering. It provides, among other things, that either party can cancel it on 60 days' notice and that the union can't compel its members to work with non-union printers.

Randolph said the employer "has to have a little faith in us."

The Judge asked: "Doesn't that work both ways?" It was his final question to the witness.

Communist Propaganda Machine Pictures America as Exploiting Reich Under 'Will of Wall Street'—and So It Goes Around the World Around the Clock.

This is the fifth and last of a series of articles on Soviet Russia's propaganda attack on the United States, based on a study of Soviet world broadcasts during the last 10 months as officially monitored in Washington.

By ROBERT S. BIRD

(Copyright, 1948.)

ONE of the neatest tricks turned by the Soviet radio in its propaganda attack on the United States was the grabbing for itself of a new "trade-mark" on Germany's age-old dream of "German unity."

As a propaganda device, it was as simple as tying two pieces of string together. Germany, quite naturally, desired to be unified. Soviet Russia and the United States disagreed as to how this should be accomplished. Russia, appraising the stalemate, tied her piece of propaganda string to the German hope and gave it a tug; ergo, the United States was trying to dismember Germany.

Tears for Germany's Plight.

Day and night the Soviet radio gives righteous voice to German aspirations for unity. The German ether is saturated with Soviet tears for Germany's plight; and every tear carries a reproach—or worse—for the imperialist American monster which mutilates the Fatherland.

"Germany is like a battlefield, strewn with hands, arms, and parts of bodies, while the life blood that was shed gushes in the sand," said a Soviet broadcast to Germans.

Wholly apart from the converse notion which Soviet propagandists have contrived to attach to their "unity" theme—that it is the United States which is solely responsible for blocking Germany's unification—is the more subtle appeal the unity slogan makes to German nostalgia.

"Tools" of U.S. "Imperialism."

The Soviet appeal for "unity" is made, of course, to the "democratic" elements within the country. The "reactionary" Germans are depicted as "tools" of the American imperialism.

Here the Soviet propagandists merge their "unity" motif with another tune.

To the rest of Europe and to their own people, they offer this propaganda theme: that the United States wants Germany dismembered in order to build up Western Germany's economic potentiality and create there, in the heart of Europe, a military bastion of American imperialism from which it will "conquer" all Europe.

"The German unity movement is not an accidental phenomenon caused by Communist schemings, as Angelo-American propagandists try to persuade public opinion," Moscow broadcast in Polish to Europe Jan. 28. "The real cause of the trouble in Bizonia is the Anglo-Saxon policy leading to economic chaos and grave political consequences, not only in Western Germany, but throughout Western Europe.

"This policy can be described as an attempt to adjust German economy to the needs of the United States monopolists and to 'turn Western Germany into a base for increasing the influence of United States imperialism in Europe'—as Molotov has said."

"The Will of Wall Street."

Elaborating upon this theme, again typically, Moscow broadcast to the Russian people on Jan. 20, quoting Pravda:

"Speaking in the Senate Committee for Foreign Affairs in defense of this (E. R. P.) plan, Forrestal, United States Secretary of Defense, with the cynical frankness of a business man addressing a narrow circle of his friends, expounded on all the facts which his colleague Marshall was so far hiding . . . about aid to Europe, the reconstruction of European economy, and the salvation of Western civilization.

"This sugary terminology evidently aggravates and irritates the banker of the Dillon, Read & Co. firm, who is not used to diplomacy, and who became United States Secretary for Defense by the will of Wall Street. Forrestal prefers to use simpler language in his discourse with the Senators.

"Thus the grinning snout of the imperialist beast of prey, smelling a juicy piece, peeps from behind the coquettishly intertwined olive twigs.

"To hell with charity. A business man does not make money so that it should be thrown away! The United States are not going to send their dried eggs and cigarettes to Europe and never see a trace of them."

"American Grab for Bases."

The theme to the Scandinavian countries is an "American grab for northern bases."

"The Americans are trying to acquire vassals for the creation of new hotbeds of intrigue against the Soviet Union," Norway was told in her tongue Jan. 24. "United States monopolists wish to establish themselves in Norway in order to create a military and political bridgehead against the Soviet Union."

"This means"—to Denmark Jan. 26 in the Danish language—"that Sweden will also have to pay by relinquishing its sovereignty for the extremely doubtful United States assistance . . . by allowing Swedish territory to be used as airfields for American superbombers."

France and Italy are to be "conquered," "relegated to status of agrarian nations," or even "made colonies," they are told.

For Japan, Great Britain.

To Japan, in Japanese language, Feb. 21:

"In place of Japanese movies, the cheap and vulgar Hollywood pictures have been substituted; in place of Japanese literature are the American gangster novels. The fox trot has taken the place of the traditional Japanese folk dance and the world-renowned traditional 'Kabuki' Theater has been replaced with . . . dance revues. Such is the nature of American-promoted culture."

For Great Britain, in English Oct. 21, a sneer at touring American Congressmen:

"Before the war there used to be swarms of United States tourists traveling about Europe. They would roam with a bored air through museums and art galleries, pick up souvenirs and leave dollars in exchange. But times change, and now it seems it is United States Congressmen who are traveling about Europe on tours of investigation.

"They don't care about souvenirs and don't leave any dollars. They only promise, and that very vaguely, to hand out dollars at some indefinite future date. In the meantime they present perfectly definite terms to the European countries, and without any undue squeamishness, either."

And So It Goes.

And so it goes, around the world and around the clock. The Soviet radio pipes softly or pipes shrilly.

Perhaps it never piped more truthfully than on Dec. 9, when Soviet transmitters broadcast for one hour and fifteen minutes in Russian, French, Slovak, German and English a thoroughly frank, explicit and top-level report on Georgi M. Malenkov's speech on the newly organized Cominform. Moscow said:

"The whole weight of the class struggle has, as far as the U.S.S.R. is concerned, shifted to the international arena. Here we are faced with two competing systems, the capitalist and the socialist. Here our party has to make a trial of its weapons in battles with the unscrupulous men of affairs of bourgeois politics."

The radio is one of these Soviet weapons. The battle is unceasing. The arena is global. The target is this country; its government, its policies, its way of life.

LEWIS APPEARS TO BE PREPARING PUBLIC FOR STRIKE

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 13—John L. Lewis dropped another delayed action bomb yesterday in his dispute with soft-coal mine operators over the miners' welfare and retirement fund.

He spoke again in delphic phrases in a letter to his 400,000 soft-coal miners and to reporters whom he met at a press conference. The initiated concluded he was conditioning the public for a coal strike. Lewis dismissed a question about a possible strike as "hypothetical."

"Of course," he rumbled, "you understand what our contract says."

He reached for it among the papers on his desk and began reading:

"'. . . This agreement shall cover the employment. . . . during such time as such persons are able and willing to work.'

"How Long?" They Ask.

"Well, they have been 'able and willing' to work for eight long months and now they are asking, through me? 'How long?'"

Lewis told his miners in the letter: "Your ears will soon be assailed by their (the operators') outcries and wails of anguish."

He was asked whether the wails of anguish would be because the mines were shut down, and he parried this by telling the reporter he probably knew better than Lewis how mine operators wail.

Another question was whether Lewis's letter, reviewing the stalemate that has developed over the welfare and retirement fund, would affect the willingness of his miners to work.

"Who can answer?" he replied. "That is a question for each individual to decide for himself—so Taft said."

Puts Case to People.

Lewis said he was now presenting his case to the people because he wanted them to understand that the mine operators had dishonored the contract they signed last July 7.

"I hope," he said, "that the American people will at least decide that the mine workers are entitled to the execution of the bond.

"We have the bond," he went on, waving it in his left hand. "Now we want the use of the ducats."

The dispute, as the Post-Dispatch has told, has to do with the use to be made of the welfare and retirement fund being accumulated under the contract through a royalty of 10 cents on each ton of coal mined. The fund contained $29,494,032 on March 6, Lewis disclosed.

The money is lying idle in banks because Lewis, as one of the trustees, and Ezra van Horn, trustee for the operators, have been unable to agree on a pension plan. The third trustee, Thomas E. Murray of New York, representing the public, resigned some weeks ago because of the stalemate, and has not been replaced.

Lewis's Demand.

Lewis is demanding pensions of $100 a month for miners who retire at the age of 60 after 20 years in the mines. The operators have objected that this would require a royalty of as much as 40 cents a ton, but, Lewis said, have made no counter proposal.

Lewis dismissed this contention of the operators as of no consequence. Experts in the Social Security Administration have figured that this proposed pension plan would require no more than $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 in the first year of its operation, he said. Beyond that, he added, there can be no precise actuarial projection of the cost because the question no one can answer is how many miners would retire on a "nominal" pension when they became eligible to receive it, and how many would go on working.

"In any event," he said, "the fund cannot be liable for any expenditure beyond its income. No matter what plan is set up, whenever the fund gets to the end of its financial reserves, there can be no further expenditures. The question is one for posterity."

Assails Senator Taft.

In his letter to the miners, Lewis said Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, "intentionally and maliciously" inserted into "the Taft slave act" a provision which gave the operators veto power in use of their fund through their trustee, Van Horn.

"They haven't actually said, 'We repudiate the contract,'" Lewis explained to reporters, "but they say they had a different sort of pension in mind, and have used every subterfuge that makes for delay."

Lewis said that last year was the most profitable in history for coal operators, with profits ranging from 50 cents to $3 a ton on a record-breaking production. On the other hand, he said, 64,165 miners were killed or injured, more than in any year since 1944." Instead of lessening the hazards of the industry," he said, "this high production has itself contributed to the accident record and to the laxity of the industry which refuses to do the things necessary to promote safety, although the money taken from the public is sufficient to do that."

There is another welfare fund, separately administered, out of which death benefits of $1000 have been paid to the families of miners, and other payments have been made to individual mine families in distress. This fund, accumulated during Government operation of the mines through a royalty of 5 cents a ton, amounted to $14,906,951 on March 6, Lewis said. It will be exhausted this summer at the present rate of expenditure.

The controversy over the other fund broke into the open Feb. 2, when Lewis wrote to the operators that he reagrded himself as free to "take independent action" because the dispute had not been resolved. Those who look for a coal strike to result about April 1, the traditional day for such strikes, point out it might be argued that this letter served the so-called civil rights program."

"Our inquiry has satisfied us it is virtually the unanimous will of the people of the southern states to take every possible effective action within their power, not only to prevent the enactment of the proposed legislation, but also to defeat those who have proposed it and any others advocating it," the report said.

For Restoring Two-Thirds Rule.

The committee recommended that the southern states work for restoration of a party rule to require a two-thirds majority vote to nominate a presidential candidate. It suggested that state delegations warn the national convention of the terms under which they will participate in the convention.

A member of the committee had said earlier the conference was ready to tell Truman to abandon his civil rights program or forfeit southern support.

Administration officials have been seeking to stave off a showdown on civil rights until the Democratic convention in July.

At that time, a party official said, the resolutions committee will be asked to work President Truman's hotly debated proposals into a compromise plank in the 1948 platform.

The convention group will be made up of members from each state and territory and the District of Columbia. Thus rebelling southerners will have a voice in deciding the issue, even if they are outnumbered by northern and western Democrats.

National Chairman J. Howard McGrath told four southern Governors recently that he would be willing to go back to the 1944 platform declaration.

That plank said the party believes minorities "have the right to live, develop and vote equally with all citizens," and it urged Congress to "exert its full constitutional powers to protect those rights."

A Southern Convert.

She said after a White House luncheon of the party's executive committee with Truman yesterday that the President had given her a satisfactory answer to a vital question. That question was whether she could "go back and tell my people that you are not going to tear up our social structure in the South and that you are everybody's President."

She said the President replied: "I do not take back one word I said. I stand on the Constitution of the United States. I'm everybody's President."

Beaming, Mrs. Thomas told reporters: "We are going to stand together and work for a Democratic victory."

Other executive committee members came out of the meeting with the President saying their slogan would be "peace and prices."

Frank McHale, Indiana committeeman, said the Republicans had missed the boat on the high cost of living issue. He said the party committee was certain that "the mass of the people will make any sacrifice for peace."

MARSHALL FIELD SELLS PM, BUT ON CONTINGENT BASIS

If Buyer Can't Reach Agreement With the Guild, Newspaper Will Be Closed.

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Marshall Field III said today he either was selling his New York newspaper, PM, or closing it. He said he no longer would support the publication, because of heavy deficits it has incurred since he helped establish it eight years ago.

The paper has been sold to Clinton D. McKinnon of San Diego, Calif., contingent on McKinnon reaching an agreement with the CIO American Newspaper Guild, which represents editorial employes of the paper, the publisher said.

If no agreement is reached, Field said, it would cease publication March 26. He declined to disclose the sale price. Field also publishes the Chicago Sun-Times.

The transaction first was disclosed last night by Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the New York City local of the Guild.

Handled Deal.

David Karr, Washington newspaperman, said McKinnon left Washington by air for San Diego this morning. Karr disclosed that he had negotiated the proposed purchase of the newspaper by McKinnon. Karr will take one of the executive positions on PM if the sale is concluded, he said. He is at present associated with Drew Pearson, columnist and radio commentator.

Under the new direction, Karr said, "editorial policies of the paper will remain liberal, but not leftist. News and editorial columns will be separated."

PM's 170 employes represented by the ANG were notified yesterday that their employment was being terminated as of March 26. The notices added:

"The proposed new owner and publisher of PM has made a proposal for your future employment to your Guild representatives, who already have communicated it or will communicate it to you."

Proposes Trial Period.

Murphy said McKinnon proposed that he resume publication on March 28 for a three-month trial period. One of the conditions of his proposal was that during that period, any employe could be dismissed without recourse to grievance machinery.

Murphy said McKinnon left the city after making the proposal, saying he would return Monday to get the Guild's answer. The PM Guild unit will meet Monday morning to consider the proposal.

Murphy said employes will receive severance pay as of March 26. Negotiations have been under way to replace the Guild contract that expired Feb. 28. McKinnon would continue most of its terms.

Paper Founded in 1940.

Field, who inherited a Chicago department store fortune, was one of the founders of PM in 1940, and became sole owner in 1942. Under Editor Ralph Ingersoll, the paper strongly supported the New Deal.

In June 1946 PM announced a drive for 100,000 new subscribers. It said Field then had invested $4,318,000 without return, and though the paper was "in the black" it faced rising production costs. At that time the daily circulation was given as 165,000. It is now about 140,000 daily and 153,000 on Sundays.

In November 1946 PM announced that it would accept advertising. Ingersoll resigned, and Managing Editor John P. Lewis took his place.

Since 1935, McKinnon has founded, developed and sold two California papers, at North Hollywood and San Diego.

PUBLIC'S AID SOUGHT FOR BARRACKS PLAN

Group Discusses Proposals After Aldermen Call for Park in Area.

Plans for an intensive drive to gain favorable public sentiment for preserving Jefferson Barracks property as a national park were discussed last night at a meeting of the Jefferson Barracks National Park Committee at the Edgewater Club.

Action by the committee came a few hours after the St. Louis Board of Aldermen unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the establisment of a national park in the area to preserve the historical significance of the former military post and as a fitting area surrounding the National Cemetery in which heroes of wars from the Revolution through World War II are buried.

Among the projects outlined by the committee for immediate action is the formation of a speaker's bureau that would supply informed speakers on the subject of Jefferson Barracks for civic, fraternal and service organizations.

Another plan is to sponsor an essay contest among high school students in St. Louis, St. Louis county and on the East Side. The essays are to be on the subject of preserving the former military reservation as a national park. Prizes will be awarded.

Alfred C. Waldemer, chairman of the committee, announced at the meeting that the War Assets Administration had postponed indefinitely the proposed sale of 880 acres of the area. Postponement of the sale was one of the first objectives of the committee, he said, and it would not compromise on its purpose of establishing a national park at the site.

He distributed a sample resolution urging establishment of a national park.

Pleas for preservation of the area, which was established as a military outpost in July 1826, and which was commanded by such famous men as Gen. U. S. Grant and Gen. Robert E. Lee, were made by W. E. J. Quinn, retired Army colonel who formerly commanded the post, and E. R. Kinsey, one of the founders of the committee for its preservation.

Tomorrow's Events

9:30 a. m.—Mrs. Alexander S. Langsdorf will discuss "Training Schools for Delinquent Children in Missouri," at a meeting of the adult discussion group of the Ethical Society, 3646 Washington.

10 a. m. to 10 p.m.—Good Neighbor Day at the Greater St. Louis Flower and Garden Show at Kiel Auditorium Exposition Hall, with talks at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

1 p.m.—Missouri Neuropsychiatric Society opens meeting at Hotel Jefferson.

2:30 p.m.—Hobby show and tea sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of St. Louis and St. Louis county in field house of Shaw Park, Clayton.

2:30 and 4:30 p.m.—Ten-minute talks on the masterpiece of the week by members of the educational staff of City Art Museum, with gallery tour at 3:30 p.m.

3 p.m.—Open house for St. Louisans of Hungarian descent in observance of the one hundredth anniversary of Hungarian liberty at American-Hungarian Hall, 1921 South Ninth street.

6 p.m.—Dinner meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Missouri State Medical Society at Hotel Sheraton.

EFFECTIVE 'ROMEO' BY BALLET THEATRE

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

The Ballet Theater, in conjunction with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, began a series of four performances last night in Kiel Auditorium. Of the three ballets offered in the course of the evening the first—Antony Tudor's "Romeo and Juliet"—was by a large measure the most finished and the most completely effective.

Although this narrative in pantomime had been played before in St. Louis the present production seemed to have been restudied and made more fluent. The flow of movement was continuous and the transitions from scene to scene suggested the bridge passages in a symphony when a new subject is introduced. The stylized gestures were imaginative and illuminating, the ensembles were composed in a manner that gratified one's sense of balance and the lighting was used dynamically to reinforce a mood or to underscore a dramatic period.

The narrative followed the outline of Shakespeare's tragedy. In general, however, the spirit of the production was more lyrical than tragic even though the death of Mercutio and the subsequent encounter between Romeo and Tybalt were thrown into sharp, dramatic relief. The music by Delius, drawn from a number of his scores, contributed to this effect with its prevailing softness of texture. Moreover the action on the stage tended to keep one's interest fastened on what was happening at the moment without much regard to where it might be leading.

The fluidity and precision of the dancers together with the richly beautiful costumes and sets by Eugene Berman and the tonal depth of the orchestra under Director Max Goberman, were quite enough, in any case, to keep the observer fully engaged. Alicia Alonso and Hugh Laing, in the name parts, Antony Tudor as Tybalt and Fernando Alonso as Mercutio were the outstanding principals.

The two other numbers on the program were "Interplay" with choreography by Jerome Robbins and "Theme and Variations," a ballet in the classic style by George Balanchine. The Robbins ballet was a humorous commentary in modern terms on the classical dance positions and movements. The dancers were clad in glorified gymnasium costumes. The action was sharp and vivid though Mr. Robbins made it difficult to follow at times by dividing the dancers into two groups that could not be contained in one visual focus. The accompanying score, clever and derivative, was by Morton Gould.

"Theme and Variations" to music by Tschaikowsky offered the only dancing in the classic tradition and afforded Miss Alonso and Igor Youskevitch numerous opportunities to display their sound schooling and affecting plasticity of movement. The corps de ballet performed competently enough to make Mr. Balanchine's creative ingenuity quite apparent. Sets and costumes by Woodman Thompson were more attractive in their use of color than in design.

Max Goberman conducted all three ballets. The Delius score was particularly well managed. The other two were not quite as smooth but there was excellent coordination with the stage at all times. The second and third performances of the present engagement will be given this afternoon and tonight.

BYRNES URGES U.S. TO WARN RUSSIA, 'ACT' IF NECESSARY

atom bomb makes the air program one with highest priority." He also called for additional air forces appropriations.

Expressing hope that Congress would pass the European Recovery Program, he said: "We must realize that the appropriation of money—which cannot be available to the European nations for several months—will not stop the Soviets from further expansion this spring, if they have decided on such expansion."

Byrnes, champion of a postwar "patient but firm" policy toward Russia, said any action to curb Soviet expansion should be "within the spirit and the letter of the charter of the United Nations," but, he added:

"Knowing the Soviet habit of taking over a government and then announcing there is nothing to discuss, we must let the Soviets know we will act immediately to preserve the status quo until the Security Council has an opportunity to investigate the threatened aggression."

The "iron curtain" already has gone down on Czechoslovakia, Byrnes said. And he predicted that Russia's demand on Finland for a defense treaty would be followed shortly by complete political and military control of Finland's government.

"We have every reason to believe the Soviets covet control of Greece, Turkey, Italy and France," Byrnes said. He foresaw "no armed invasion" of any of these countries, but he asserted there was "no important difference in the direct methods of Hitler in 1938 and the indirect methods of Stalin in 1948."

The United States already is "pledged" by the Truman doctrine, Byrnes pointed out, to protect the independence of Greece, Turkey, Italy and France.

"It will be unfortunate if the Soviets are misled into believing we will not carry out the solemn pledges of the President," he said. "In 1914 and again in 1939, the Germans were misled by what they believed to be our lack of decision and our lack of military power. But I am confident that if the Soviets conclude that we really mean what we say, they will hesitate to proceed further with their efforts to dominate all Europe."

Two Propose Congress Give Advance Approval to Military Aid.

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Two House Republicans proposed yesterday that Congress give its approval in advance to United States military aid for free nations threatened by Communist aggression.

Republican Nixon (Rep.), California and Representative Kersten (Rep.), Wisconsin, introduced a resolution through which, they said, Congress could give solemn warning that the United States "will back up its words with action."

"Our resolution," they said in a joint statement, "would assure the President that Congress will back him up in the use of strong measures, above and beyond economic aid to stiN free peoples, to resist the further spread of Communist aggression.

"We believe that Congress should take this action so that the President and the State Department may act decisively in future emergencies. . . .

"If allowed to remain unchecked, the present course of Communist aggression will guarantee World War III. . . .

"The surest way to avoid such a war is to let the Communists know that the United States means business and that it will back up its words with action now before the Communists are in a position to deliver a lethal blow to the civilized world."

T.B. SESSIONS STRESS COMMUNITY'S ROLE

Organizations Reported Needed to Develop Educational Techniques.

The importance of community organizations in the development of educational techniques and surveys to check the spread of tuberculosis was emphasized today at sessions of the annual two-day meeting of the Missouri Tuberculosis Society at Hotel Statler.

The conference of representatives of local agencies in Missouri will close tonight after a dinner meeting. Speakers will include Dr. James E. Perkins of New York, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association; Dr. Esmond R. Long, research director, and Dr. Julius L. Wilson, professor of clinical medicine at Tulane University, New Orleans. Dr. H. L. Mantz of Kansas City, president of the Missouri association and president-elect of the national foundation, will preside.

Yesterday, Dr. George D. Kettelkamp, superintendent of Koch Hospital, discussed various types of immunities, both natural and acquired, to the disease. Dr. John Meyer, chest surgeon at the hospital, explained some of the newer surgical techniques.

The program also included talks by Dr. Samuel S. Romendick, assistant chief of the tuberculosis section of the Veterans' Administration, on chemotherapy, and Dr. Charles Brashear, superintendent of the Missouri State Sanatorium at Mount Vernon, who described the problems of patients.

The Missouri Trudeau Society, the medical and scientific research section of the state association, is meeting in conjunction with the conference.

MO. PAC. TO PURCHASE BONDS

Guy A. Thompson, trustee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, was authorized to purchase $1,628,000 in 4 per cent first mortgage bonds of the Central Branch Union Pacific Railway Co. for 80 per cent of their par value by United States District Judge George H. Moore yesterday.

The bonds were issued in June 1938 and are secured by 101 miles of Missouri Pacific main line track which the railroad acquired in 1917 in Kansas, Thompson said. No interest has been paid since Dec. 1, 1939.

Mine Delegates Urge Union Action on Pension Plan.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 13 (AP)—A delegation of coal miners came to their union headquarters here today to say that "something has to be done about our pension plan or we'll quit work."

Those were the words attributed to their spokesmen by President William Blizzard of United Mine Workers District 17. He said a delegation representing "four or five locals" in this rich bituminous field was waiting for him when he arrived at the office.

JULIUS IS FURIOUS!
"A joke is a joke," says Julius, "and we can go along with a gag—but it looks like this St. Louis florist is trying to muscle in on our advertising. This is no good!" We are inclined to side with Julius. However, we will be busy today with dinner guests at Bevo Mill and after-dinner dancing in the Yacht Club. And when we see our patrons enjoying Julius' superior cuisine we will probably forget our pique—florist or no florist!

Dick Sisler May Make It at First This Time; Pops Red Sox Pitching

Cards Find Plate, but Fall Short

TODAY'S SCORE

By J. Roy Stockton
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13—Dick Sisler has served notice on Manager Eddie Dyer that there is a candidate for the first base job who isn't going to be brushed aside easily. Sisler used a fine method of serving notice, too. He whacked Boston Red Sox pitching for four hits yesterday, as he played a full game at first base, and the young man's slugging was one of the few pleasing features of the Redbirds' third straight defeat.

Dick was at bat five times and reached base on each trip. He was safe on a hot grounder that took a bad bounce or was too hot for Bobby Doerr to handle in the second inning. The ball was hit straight to Doerr, so the Boston second baseman was charged with an error. A single to center, a single to right, another single to center and a triple to left center were Dick's other contributions to the Cardinal attack as the American Leaguers won, 14 to 9.

All Right in Field.

Sisler did a satisfactory job at first base, too. He isn't a "fancy Dan" around first base like Glenn Nelson or Mike Natisin, but if he can continue to club the ball, he may be the man that Eddie Dyer was looking for, some one who would hit the ball and perform at first satisfactorily enough so that the manager would feel that he just had to move Stan Musial back to the outfield.

Dyer was ready to let Dick handle the job in 1946, but Sisler was under a terrific handicap that season. All observers were comparing Dick with his famous father. And the young man, trying too hard to perform up to those high standards, pressed and slumped. This year he's not worrying about what his father used to do as a first baseman. Dick just wants to get that job and he has looked this spring like a different ball player.

There's no particular reason to be downcast over the three defeats the Cardinals have suffered, especially now that the club has proved that it can score a few runs. You see a year ago the Cardinals were winning Grapefruit League games with young players. This year they're getting their old players, especially their pitchers, into condition. Howie Pollet, John Grodzicki and Ted Wilks pitched against the Red Sox. It's better for them to take shellackings now and be ready when the pennant race starts than to be getting into shape in late April and May.

Howie Works Smoothly.

Pollet was throwing smoothly, without an evidence of arm trouble. He'll sharpen his control by the time the season opens. Grodzicki's showing was a disappointment. For two years the Cards have been carrying the wounded paratrooper, hoping he'd come back to the brilliance that marked his work before the war. The boys felt worse about the way the Red Sox banged him around than about anything else that has happened this spring. Wilks also felt the sting of the Boston bats.

The Cardinals were ready to admit on their return from Sarasota, that the Red Sox have power.

The Red Sox are different this year, too. Joe McCarthy has made a tremendous difference. Even Ted Williams played a full nine innings. McCarthy is serious about getting his team into condition. He doesn't send in the donkeys after the regulars have played four innings. Marse Joe didn't make a change in his lineup, except to relieve his pitchers.

There was good news from the B squad after yesterday's game at Bradenton. The Bees defeated the Boston Braves reserves, 4 to 0, with Jack Crimian and Al Papai pitching a three-hitter. Del Rice, who caught Papai, said his knuckler was working with magic, baffling the Braves, whose lineup included Jeff Heath, Bob Elliott, Sibby Sisti and several other first string men.

Bears Dropped From Billiken Baseball Card

James Milliken University is the only new team added to the 14-game baseball schedule of St. Louis University. Notre Dame and Washington U. Bears have been dropped.

Schedule for 1948:

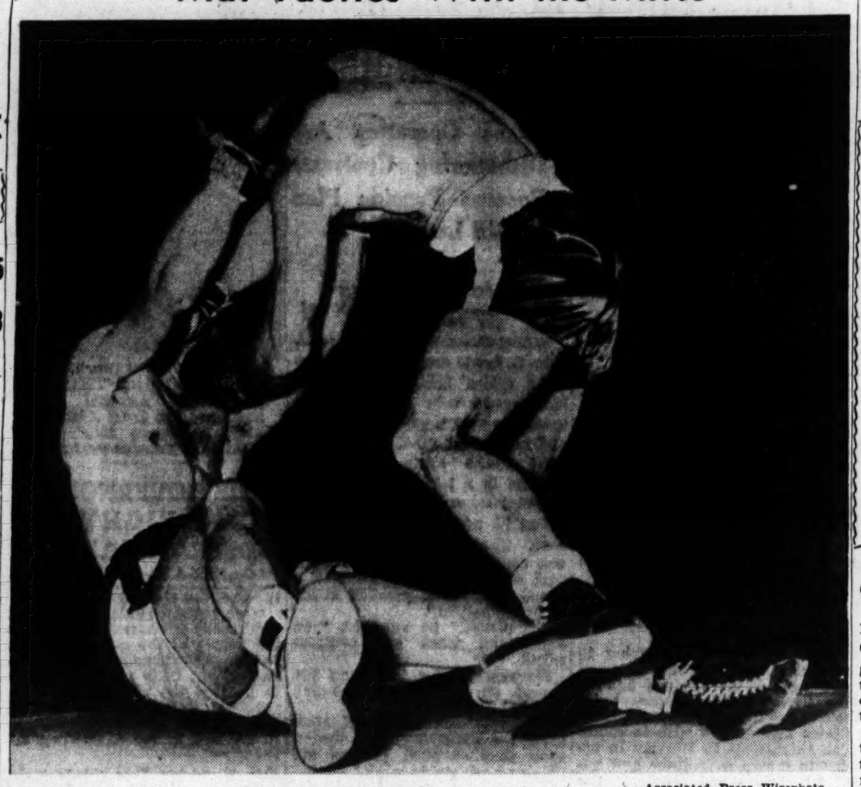

April 7, Wednesday, Harris Teachers' College, there; April 10, Saturday, University of Missouri, here; April 16, Friday, Concordia Seminary, there; April 20, Tuesday, Parks Air College, here; April 23, Friday, James Millikin University, here; April 25, Sunday, Parks Air College, there; April 27, Tuesday, Harris Teachers' College, here; April 30, Friday, Bradley University, there; May 1, Saturday, Bradley University, there; May 5, Wednesday, Parks Air College, here; May 8, Saturday, James Millikin University, there; May 11, Tuesday, University of Missouri, there; May 13, Wednesday, Concordia Seminary, here; May 15, Saturday, Parks Air College, there.

Fred Faurot to Coach Murray State Eleven

MURRAY, Ky., March 13 (UP)—The board of regents at Murray State College today announced the appointment of Fred Faurot as head football coach to succeed James Moore, who resigned shortly after the 1947 season.

Faurot, a brother of Don Faurot, head football coach at the University of Missouri, officially will take over his new duties April 1. Faurot has coached at several colleges in Missouri and Iowa, including Parsons College. He was inactive as a coach last season.

LAVERN ROACH (left), about to hit the canvas in the second round, pulls MARCEL CERDAN of France, European middleweight champion, down with him at Madison Square Garden. There was a difference of opinion as to whether Roach went down from a punch or slipped. The Frenchman won on a technical knockout from the Plainview (Tex.) boxer in the eighth round.

Beaumont Gains Final, Drubs Lebanon, 64-32

By Harold Tuthill
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 13—Beaumont defeated Lebanon here this afternoon, 64 to 32, to move within one game of the State High School basketball championship it won last year. The Bluejackets tonight will meet the winner of the lower bracket semi-final between Cleveland and St. James, who played in the second half of today's double header.

Beaumont was off to a poor start and trailed Lebanon 8-3 early in the first quarter. Five and a half minutes elapsed before Beaumont scored fro mscrimmage, Bob Koch breaking the ice for the Bluejackets. That brought the St. Louis team up to 8-5.

Beaumont was behind at the quarter 10-9 but Freddy Kovar tossed in a free throw to tie the score as the second period started. Mel Capehart contributed another free throw and Beaumont took a lead which it never relinquished. The defending champions were ahead at the half 28-12.

Good Defense.

So tight was the Beaumont defense that Lebanon was held without a field goal during the second quarter and only one in the third. session. Lebanon did better against the Beaumont reserves who finished, getting 13 points in the final quarter.

Kovar as usual popped them in for Beaumont. He scored 18 points to run his tournament total to 53. John Woosley, Lebanon's star center, was held to a dozen points, his lowest total of the three in the State series.

Yesterday the Jackets drubbed Rocky Comfort, 76 to 35, while Cleveland last night beat hard-charging Republic, 58 to 49.

Beaumont had an easy time of it, but Cleveland sweated out its struggle with Republic, a school beaten only twice since the first of the year. The Greene County Tigers pressed their St. Louis rivals all the way and showed a great shooting star in jumping Jack Trogdon, who poured in 12 field goals and two free throws for 26 points.

As great as Trogdon's showing was, however, he did not overshadow Cleveland's stellar Rich English, who pushed through a dozen field goals and five free throws for 29 points. Those with his 27 against Clarkton, ran his total for the season to 445. He needs only 40 more today to tie the four-game high of 96 made in state competition last year by August (Bud) Heinman of Versailles.

Cleveland showed a lot of courage against Republic because the majority of those in the crowd of 2202 paid were rooting for the Greene County boys. Except for Trogdon's uncanny jump shots, 25 feet or so from the basket, they had little to cheer.

The St. Louis Dutchmen ran up 18 points in the first quarter and added another 14 to lead at the half, 32 to 19. It was fortunate for the Janson-coached team that it had an edge of 13 points because Republic out-scored Cleveland 30-26 in the second half.

Billy Talbert Meets Negro Player In 2d Round of Indoor Tennis

NEW YORK, March 13 (UP)—Bill Talbert, top-seeded ace from New York, led the men's field into second-round matches today in the National Indoor Singles Tennis championships, while the first round of women's play got under way with Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., rated first.

Talbert, fifth-ranked player in the nation, was pitted against Dr. Reginald W. Weir of New York, the first Negro ever to play in the tourney; while Miss Hart's opening test was against Nine Fisher of Jackson Heights, N. Y.

Dr. Weir earned acclaim when he won his first-round match on Thursday, but in drawing Talbert for a second-round opponent he appeared to have reached his limit. Second-seeded Irvin Dorfman of New York was expected to move along with Talbert by beating his former Yale teammate Jack Geller of Madison, Conn.

McGrath Also in Action.

Other seeded players appearing in second-round matches today will be: fourth-ranked Frank Shields of New York against W. J. Clifton of New York; seventh-seeded Chauncey Steele of Cambridge, Mass., against Jack Lynch of Chestnut Hill, Mass.; eighth-ranked Frank Bowden of Madison, N. J., against Edward Alloo of New York; Marcel Bernard of France, top-ranked foreigner, against Phil Hanna of Jackson Heights, N.Y.; Armando Vieiria of Brazil, third-ranked foreigner, against Lester Hirschfield of New York; and Henri Rochon of Canada, fifth-seeded foreigner, against Dick Seeler of Bellerose, N. Y.

Besides Miss Hart's match, other leading women's tests today were: Gertrude Moran, Santa Monica, Cal., vs. Barbara Wilkins, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mrs. Helen Pedersen Ribhany vs. Sylvia Knowles, Newport, R. I.; and Magda Rurac of Romania vs. Mrs. Louise Ganzenmuller, Seacliff, N. Y.

The major upset of the first round of the tournament was turned in yesterday by Nathan Goldstein of Brooklyn, former New Jersey state champion, when he defeated Jean Borotra, France's famed "Bounding Basque," seeded second among foreigners, 7-5, 6-1.

Borotra, now 49 years old, won the first five games of the opening set and then ran out of gas. Goldstein took 13 of the next 14 games, 12 of them in a row.

Another upset was manufactured by 17-year-old Billy Long of New York, who eliminated Vini Rurac of Romania, third-seeded foreigner, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. Marcel Bernard of France, top-ranked foreigner, moved ahead, however, by trimming Albert H. Stitt of Waban, Mass., 6-4, 6-2 and Vieiria routed Al Hollander of the University of Virginia 6-1, 6-2.

Shields won yesterday over Bob Dixon of the University of Michigan, 6-2, 9-7, and Steele defeated John Lohstoeter of the University of Pittsburgh, 8-6, 6-2. Sixth-seeded Dick Savitt of East Orange, N. J., could not leave Cornell University and defaulted to Leo Tedesco of Brooklyn.

Other first round winners yesterday included Dr. Bricker, Lynch, Axel Kaufmann of Cambridge, Mass.; J. Gilbert Hall of New York, and Gilbert Bogley, Chevy Chase, Md.

Herb McKenley Victor In 600-Yard Event

NEW YORK, March 13 (UP)—Herb McKenley, world record-holder for the quarter-mile, raced to a four-yard triumph last night in the 600-yard run in the New York Pioneer Club track meet which closed New York's indoor season at the 369th Regiment Armory.

McKenley, dusky speedster from the British West Indies, led from gun to tape to take the feature in 1:21.1, good time on the flat surface. In second place was Hugh Short of the Pioneer Club, world's record holder for 600 yards indoors who is attempting a post-war comeback.

Ed Conwell of the Jersey City recreation department took the 60-yard dash in 6.4 seconds, reaching the tape a full yard in front of Ira Kaplan of New York University.

Cerdan Floors Roach 7 Times In Scoring KO

NEW YORK, March 13 (UP)—Marcel Cerdan, the European middleweight champion, who stopped young Lavern Roach in the eighth round, will continue in May his campaign for a shot at the world title.

Matchmaker Chickie Bogad announced today that Cerdan would be pitted against the best middleweight contender available at Madison Square Garden, on May 21, where last night he scored a technical knockout over Roach at 2:31 of the eighth round.

Bogad said the May opponent would be selected from among Anton Raadik, Herbie Kronowitz and Steve Belloise.

Cerdan, a 32-year-old Frenchman from Casablanca, Morocco, had Roach of Plainview, Tex., on the floor for the seventh time last night when Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the bout before 16,905 fans. It was Marcel's fourth United States victory.

Six Roach trips to the canvas were official knockdowns. The other trip was a goofy, wrestled-down occurrance that caused disagreement between Jack Watson, the knockdown timekeeper, and Referee Donovan. This disagreement, in the second round, gave groggy Roach a welcome respite for 20 to 30 seconds.

Roach, an ex-Marine of 22, did not disgrace himself in failing to last the distance for the first time in his brief career of 26 professional bouts. The scrap had been scheduled for 10 rounds.

The Texas youngster, scaling 156 pounds to Cerdan's 156½, won the first round and rallied surprisingly to take brief command in the fifth. He cut Cerdan's mouth, gashed his right brow, and raised plum-colored bruises on both cheekbones.

After scoring his 103d victory in 105 bouts, Cerdan said in the dressing room, "I never had to hit any man so hard and so often to keep him down." The Frenchman branded Lavern "a very tough baby."

Roach explained that he never recovered fully from the terrific right hook to the chin that smashed him to the floor for the first knockdown of the bout in the second round.

Taylor Ready To Give Older Players Chance

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D.R., March 13 (UP)

PETE REISER, Brooklyn Dodger slugger who will be given a trial at first base, was ordered today to go to the Dodgers' school at Vero Beach, Fla., for special training in how to play the base.

By Dent McSkimming
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 13—Eddie Pellagrini, Paul Lehner and George Metkovich are expected to get into action in one or both of the Browns' games with the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field here this afternoon and tomorrow.

Lehner has seen little game activity during the 12-days of practice in and around the San Bernardino base. The reason is that Manager Zack Taylor has half a dozen young outfielders who must be studied now. Some will stick with the club and others must be turned back to minor league clubs. Zack is trying hard to avoid any mistakes in judgment.

He is not sorry he used in the outfield yesterday Whitey Platt, George Elder and Ken Wood while Lehner, Metkovich, Layden, Coleman, Woyt, Zarilla and Frazier rested. All three of these new members of the squad were tested on difficult fielding chances as the Browns defeated the stubborn University of California at Los Angeles team, 9 to 7. Two of them, Platt and Wood, are right-hand swingers who get a lot of distance. Platt came up with a single and a triple, Wood a single.

A broad shouldered young right-hand pitcher named Del Goodyear produced a regular George Sisler performance in hobbling the Browns for five innings. He held them to five hits and two runs, and he batted in four runs for the college team. Then his coach, Art Reichle, removed him from the game because of the earliness of the season, and the hurlers who attempted to finish the job were wild. So, the Browns came on to win.

Pitchers against the Cubs today probably will be Bob Raney, Clem Dreisewerd and Ralph Schwamb. It will likely be Fred Sanford, Al Gerheauser and Bryan Stephens tomorrow.

Burman Is Cleared of Draft Evasion Charge

BALTIMORE, March 13 (AP)—Draft evasion charges against Clarence (Red) Burman, former Baltimore heavyweight fighter, were dropped yesterday.

Because his draft board was in New York, Federal Judge William C. Coleman ruled there was a technical defect in the Government indictment against Burman.

At the same time he set trial for the first week of May for four other prize fight figures accused either of evading the draft or helping associates do it. They are former world bantamweight and featherweight champion Harry Jeffra, 32; fighter Peter C. Galiano, 30; Frances E. DeOrge, a truck driver, and Nathan E. Phillips, 45, matchmaker for the Garden Athletic Club.

All have been free on bail since they were indicted almost a year ago.

Kramer Beats Riggs In Straight Sets

AUSTIN, Tex., March 13 (UP)—Jack Kramer aced Bobby Riggs monotonously last night to win, 6-2, 6-2, in one of his most impressive showings of their 45-set nationwide tennis battle.

The match took only 32 minutes. Kramer's fireball service often caught Riggs out of position, and apparently played havoc with his timing. Kramer consistently played a net game, and the defeat was even more decisive than the score.

It was the 29th win for Kramer over Riggs since the tennis tour started.

St. Louis-Owned Dog Finalist in Amateur Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 13 (AP)—Final heats of the national amateur field trials open over the nearby Camp Campbell (Ky.) terrain today with six outstanding dogs in the running for the championship.

Qualifying heats ended unexpectedly yesterday after five days when several withdrawals reduced the large field of 76 entries.

If the two-hour final heats today do not produce a champion, other contestants will be given a chance to try for the title. If a winner is not chosen today, the championship trials will be continued tomorrow.

Stein City Jack, owned by Bob Cates, Spartanburg, S.C.; Fast Delivery, owned by A. B. Bobbitt, Winston-Salem, N.C.; Drug News, owned by Otis Brown, Florence, Ala.; Beau Essig Jack, owned by Pryce Louden, Bedford, Ind.; Turkey Mountain Doctor, owned by R. A. Scott, Carbondale, Ill., and Ed Garner, Booneville, Ark.; and Spunky Danny Boy, owned by J. E. Root, St. Louis, Mo.

Macauley Named Outstanding Player to Appear at Garden; Miller Added to West Stars

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, March 13—Even while they are idle, the Billikens of St. Louis University accumulate more honors. All-America Ed Macauley today was named the season's outstanding basketball player to appear in Madison Square Garden and Dan Miller was selected to play in the East-West All-Star game here March 25.

Coach Eddie Hickey's team, now a prime favorite to win the National Invitation Tournament, returns to action Monday night in a semi-final game with Western Kentucky.

New York University plays Texas and North Carolina State meets DePaul tonight in order to determine the lower bracket semi-finalists.

The announcements of the recognition accorded Macauley and Miller are further evidence of how the Billikens have taken root in the Garden spot of basketball which is this metropolis.

Some call them the Cinderella Kids. They came out of nowhere, they say. In three New York appearances, one defeat a year ago and two victories this season, they have for the moment reached the top by inescapable merit.

They Just Dazzle Foes.

In the program for the Invitation Tournament—before the event started—they occupied the most prominent first page spot. In the eyes of those who wager they have rated consistently at a short price. And the headlines after their easy first-round victory over a dazed Bowling Green team harked back to the earlier visit this season when the Bills beat Long Island U.

"Fast-breaking St. Louis five dazzles tourney foes, fans." "Fast St. Louis five tourney favorite." And so the stories went.

A bit bumped about in the first game, the Billiken athletes came out of it in excellent condition. Marv Schatzmann was kicked on his taped-up knee. D. C. Wilcutt landed on his head in a cartwheel over Bowling Green players too slow to get out of his whirling way. But the day after found no serious injury developments.

They were all ready to go in the final two-game drive to the N.I.T. title and a berth in the Olympic tryouts late this month—all including Macauley, who crossed up the first foe by playing a primarily defensive game and decoying on the attack, and Miller, who had one of his best scoring nights of the season.

The individual honors Macauley and Miller received were decided before the tournament. The Metropolitan Basketball Writer's Association (26 voting) gave Macauley the gold star award as the "most outstanding visiting player to appear in New York this season."

O'Shea Second in Voting.

Macauley scored 67 points (nine first place votes) to 62 for Notre Dame's Kevin O'Shea, who got six first-place votes. Originated in 1945, the gold star has gone to Howie Dallmar (Penn.), now with the Philadelphia Warriors, George Mikan, DePaul, and Ralph Beard, Kentucky.

Miller, who received five votes in the gold star voting, was added to the West squad for the all-star game promoted by the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund. Since the squads start practice next Saturday, Miller will remain here. Only college seniors are eligible for this game.

Coach Eddie Hickey ran second in the Writers' poll on the coach of the year. Howard Cann, New York U.'s 25-year veteran, received 105 points. Hickey got 35.

On the subject of coaching, Hickey wanted to tell Billiken followers how much help he's getting in that department on this trip from smart, able Will Durney, publicist, business manager and jack of all jobs at St. Louis U. by his scorekeeping, note-taking, trainer-assisting and general detail work. Durney helped mightily in producing the first tournament victory, Hickey said.

NEW YORK, March 13 (UP)

DE PAUL of Chicago was made a two-point favorite over North Carolina State in a late switch of odds today and New York University was established a seven-point choice over Texas for tonight's quarter-finals in the national invitational basketball tournament.

The eleventh-hour transfer of the favorite's role from North Carolina State, third-seeded team in the meet, to unseeded DePaul was brought about by the Wolfpack's loss of Richard Dickey, star forward, who suffered an attack of mumps last week. Previously, the oddsmakers had rated the Southerners a 1½-point choice over the Blue Demons.

The point-spread favoring second-seeded N. Y. U., which was expected to be bolstered by the return of Don Forman, brilliant set-shooting guard, was reduced by ½ point, but left the Violets a heavy choice over the Longhorns. Forman was out of N.Y.U.'s last game because of a back ailment.

It's Big Weekend For Racquet and Paddle Wielders

Three championship tournaments, the Missouri Valley indoor tennis tourney, Western Open table tennis competition and the Missouri State badminton championships opened in St. Louis today.

The tennis tourney is being held at the Armory, Spring avenue and Market street; table tennis at St. Louis U. gym, and badminton at C.B.C.

Play in the Valley indoor tennis competition will run until March 21, while the table tennis and badminton tournaments are two-day affairs.

Many of the outstandings players of the three sports will be in action in the events here.

Peggy Kirk Opposes Miss Riley in Final

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 13 (AP)—Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O., and Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., will meet today in the final of the Florida East Coast women's golf tournament.

The two, co-medalists in the qualifying round Monday and both members of the Curtis Cup women's golf team, defeated their opponents handily in today's semi-finals matches.

Miss Kirk won over Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 4 and 2, and Miss Riley eliminated Patricia Devany of Grosse Ile, Mich., 5 and 3.

DETROIT, March 13 (AP)—Predictions that the 1948 American Bowling Congress competition would set a new series of records were renewed today as early contestants continued to turn in outstanding scores.

Several opening day records were smashed yesterday, and leaders have set a fast pace for the "big name" bowlers who will take their turns later in the 30-day contest.

Heading the singles parade as the big pin spectacle went into its third day at Michigan State Fairgrounds was Frank Biagi of Charleston, W. Va., whose 693 mark would have been good enough to win 15 previous tournaments.

Also joining in yesterday's strike spree were George Goetz of Oconomowoc, Wis., in second place with 684, and Harold Taylor of Charleston with 678.

Six pinsters have averaged better than 200 for their nine games in all-events competition. Jimmy Hamric of Dunbar, W. Va., took an early lead with an 1871 total.

An opening night mark of 2896 set by the Dr. Peppers of Charleston retained the lead in the five-man team division. Yesterday La Saine Markets of Waukegan, Ill., moved into second place with 2857.

Two St. Louis district teams, the Wasem Weatherbirds of Belleville and Kassing-Goosens failed to land among the leaders last night. The Wasems totaled 2728 and the Kassings 2617. Darrow Hall totaled 623 and Ben Berger 605 for the Belleville five. Arthur Vogt hit 610 for the Kassings.

Alexander's 138 Tops Golf Field

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 13 (UP)—Skip Alexander of Southern Pines, N. C., was perched precariously in the driver's seat today as play entered the semifinal round in the $10,000 Jacksonville open golf tournament at the Brentwood municipal course.

Alexander, a former intercollegiate golf champion from Duke University, reached the midway point in the 72-hole tourney yesterday with a 67-71—138, one stroke less than dark-horse Steve Savel of Schenectady, N. Y.

Savel, playing in the second professional tournament of his career, toured the second round in 69—one under par. He turned in one of the spectacular shots of the day—a 50-yard approach to within 12 feet of the cup from between two trees that were so close he could not walk between them.

Chick Harbert of Detroit had 140 for third place, one less than Marty Furgol of Brooklyn, N. Y., Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., John Palmer of Badin, N. C., and Jim Milward of Three Lakes, Wis., were deadlocked with 142.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans were the latest to drop out. Mangrum, a pre-tourney favorite, experienced trouble with the soggy course yesterday and withdrew midway through the second round. Haas was disqualified for recovering his ball from a water hazard on the fifth hole and playing it as a parallel shot instead of over the hazard.

Flyers in Action.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 13—The crippled St. Louis Flyers, tailenders in the western division of the American Hockey League, will play Springfield, fifth-place team in the eastern group, here tonight.

Paul Gladu, Vic Grigg, Bingo Kampman, Jack Shewchuck, Don Grosso, Billy McComb, Joe Lund and Norm Tustin are on the Flyers' ailing list.

SHORT—WAVES

JOHN KEANE, 19-year-old catcher, a graduate of McKinley High School, has been signed by the New York Yankees and will go to the Joplin club in the Class C Western Association. . . . Bethlehem and Mount Calvary are scheduled to play a championship quarterfinal match in the Bethany Church invitational basket tourney. . . . Two games in the consolation also will be decided.

ST. LUKES defeated All Saints 29-20 and CHAMINADE won from Little Flower 29-15 to reach the final in the St. Louis county parochial basketball tournament. . . . VASHON won and WASHINGTON TECH lost in the state Negro basket title tourney at Jefferson City. . . . Vashon drubbed Columbia 67-36 and Washington dropped a 53-44 game to Jefferson City.

KENNY NIENHAUS, St. Louis bantam who was beaten by Mel Barber of Des Moines in the Western Golden Gloves tourney at Chicago, will be a member of the West team which will fight the Eastern winners at Madison Square Garden March 22. . . . ST. FRANCIS XAVIER won from Immaculate Conception and ST. THOMAS defeated St. Edwards 43-36 to enter the final in the C.Y.C. senior basket tourney at St. Anthony gymnasium.

CALIFORNIA took the lead in the Pacific Coast Conference basket championships, defeating Washington's Huskies 64-51. . . . BAYLOR'S BEARS took the first game of the series to decide the Southwest-Border Conference representative in the National Collegiate title tourney, beating Arizona 65-59. . . . KETCHIKAN won the high school basket championship of Alaska, trimming Fairbanks 34-33.

109 Nominated for Derby

Citation, Bewitch Top Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 13 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Citation and Bewitch head a list of 109 Kentucky Derby eligibles announced today by Churchill Downs.

Most of last year's leading two-year-olds were made eligible for the seventy-fourth annual running of the Derby, Saturday, May 1. The Derby, one of America's most colorful sports events, is open to three-year-olds and will be run at a distance of one and one-fourth miles. It carries $100,000 in added money.

Jet Pilot, nominated by Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Maine Chance Farm, won the 1947 running of the Derby before a crowd estimated at more than 100,000.

Calumet Farm Enters Six.

Although Citation and Bewitch, the latter a filly, head a sterling field, Calumet Farm nominated four others. They are Coaltown, Beau Dandy, Free America and Whirl Blast. The latter is a son of Calumet's great Whirlaway, which tacked up a new record in winning the 1941 classic at Churchill Downs in two minutes, one and two-fifths seconds.

Citation, beaten only once in nine starts as a juvenile, earned $155,680 last year for Warren Wright's Calumet Stable. The bay son of Bull Lea lost only to his stablemate, Bewitch. The filly earned $215,675 as a two-year-old, but there is a strong precedent against a filly winning the Derby.

Kentucky's Hal Price Headley of Lexington, producer of many top flight runners, was this year's heaviest nominator. He listed seven eligibles. They are Catsmeow, Dole, Humdinger, Padnag, Pennon, Pinebloom and Ringneck.

William Woodward's Belair Stud, owner of three Derby winners, named four of his best for the 1948 running. They are Whirling Fox, another one of Whirlaway's colts, Hypnos, Gangway and the Dervish.

Four eligibles each were nominated by Maine Chance Farm and Greentree Stable. Greentree and Maine Chance both have won previous Derbies. Greentree's 1948 hopefuls are Kilroy, Olio, Star Bout and Up Beat. Maine Chance offered Ace Admiral, Royal Blood, Succession and Striker Pilot. The last named is a Whirlaway colt.

Salmagundi Is Nominated.

William Helis, the New Orleans sportsman, will be trying again for a Derby winner. This time he nominated five colts: Bucephalus, Grand Isle, Mr. Ace, Salmagundi and Windswept. Salmagundi won the Santa Anita Derby a week ago.

Earle Sande, betted known in the old days as the country's outstanding rider and a veteran of many Kentucky Derbies, nominated two eligibles. They are Best Hand and Big Stage, both sons of Stagehand.

Among the other leading hopefuls on the 1948 list are Piet, nominated by Bomar Stable and winner of $93,360 last year; My Request, owned by Texas Ben Whitaker and winner of $90,575 as a two-year-old; and Grandpere, owned by Mrs. John Payson Adams, California sportswoman. Grandpere was the first nomination.

Col. Matt J. Winn, Churchill Downs president, said the caliber of this year's field appears higher than any list in recent years.

"More than 37 per cent of the eligibles either won an added money race last year or ran second or third in one," he said.

1948 Derby Nominations

FOR THREE-YEAR-OLDS. By subscription of $50 each; $1000 additional to start. $100,000 added, of which $10,000 to second, $5000 to third, $2500 to fourth. The trainers of the winner, of the second horse and the third horse to receive $3000, $2000 and $1000, respectively of the added money, and the breeders of the winner, of the second horse and of the third horse to receive $2000, $1000 and $500, respectively, of the added money, whether or not they are the owners of the horses when the race is run. Starters to be named through the entry box the day before the race at the usual time of closing. The owner of the winner to receive a Gold Trophy. ONE MILE AND ONE-QUARTER.

Indiana State and Louisville Play for N.A.I.B. Meet Title

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 13 (AP)—The fiery Sycamores of Indiana State College, Terre Haute, and the deliberate play-makers of the University of Louisville (Ky.) meet tonight for the National Intercollegiate Basketball title and a spot in the Olympic play-offs.

Indiana State whipped favored Hamline University of St. Paul, Minn., 66-65, last night. Center Duane Klueh's desperate, one-handed shot swished through the net a split-second before the final gun ended an overtime period.

Tonight's winner will play in the eight-term Olympic playoff at New York, March 27, 29 and 31 to determine the United States' representative in next summer's world games in London.

New Mark for Safron In Weight-Lifting

The former national junior weight-lifting titleholder, Arnold Safron, totaled 605 pounds and hoisted 245 pounds with a two-handed clean and jerk lift to set a new 132-pound class record last night in Ozark A.A.U. weight-lifting tourney at the Boys' Club. Safron broke his own mark of 240 pounds, established a year ago.

Leaders Drop Three In Kaley Pin League

The Down Town Bowls, leaders in the Major-Minor Scratch League at Kaley's Recreation, lost three games to the Eugene Monnigs last night. The winners totaled 2964, with Joe Glader hitting 624, including a high single of 238, and Jerry Ludwig 616. Harvey Hermann of the losers totaled 638, high three for the round.

Other results: Jergers 3, Kramers 0; Natural Set Ups 3, Stroot-Carrolls 0; Calvin Feutz 2, Club 606, 1.

SELECTED STOCK LIST BOUGHT; AVERAGE UP

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Stocks generally operated in the plus ranks today although demand was light and many market leaders suffered from neglect.

Sizable blocks of low-quoted issues aided volume despite frequent slowdowns. Gains of fractions to a point or so predominated near the close. Transfers for the two hours ran to 350,000 shares. The Associated Press average was up .3 of a point.

The recently lively moving picture stocks followed a slim groove as efforts to sum up the benefits of the Anglo-American film agreement were being made.

Bidding mainly by professionals, was based on growing hopes for tax cuts, the European relief program and belief that the list was in technical shape to negotiate a spring rally. Strength of commodities, in the wake of the Government's re-entry into the wheat market, was a moderately bullish factor.

Ahead most of the time were Radio Corp., Farnsworth, United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Mack Trucks (in further reflection of a splitup proposal), American Tobacco "B," Gulf Oil, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Electric Power & Light and Gulf Mobile & Ohio touched 1948 highs.

A wide assortment of pivotals was unchanged or down a shade.

Supported in the curb were Starrett Corp., Aireon and Louisiana Land. Hesitant were United Shoe Machinery, New Jersey Zinc and Trans-Lux.

WHEAT LEADS SPURT ON RENEWED U.S. BUYING

CHICAGO, March 13 (AP) — Grains spurted today in response to the re-entry of the Government into the cash wheat market.

Prices at the start jumped as much as seven cents a bushel in May wheat. From that point, the market worked lower during a good part of the session. A rally got under way in the last 30 minutes of dealings on the Board of Trade and prices approached the day's highs.

The local office of the Commodity Credit Corporation, usually closed on Saturday, remained open today to accept offers of cash wheat. It was not expected that the office would announce purchases until Monday morning.

Corn was just about as strong as wheat. Oats followed the trend of other cereals.

Wheat closed 4¼@6½c higher, May $2.40@2.40¼; corn was 5@7⅞c higher, May $2.18@2.18⅝; oats were 1½@3c higher, May $1.13⅛@¼, and soybeans were 7@8c higher, May $3.41.

Following the market's close yesterday, the Agriculture Department said it would re-enter the wheat market for the first time since the price break started in early February. Plans call for the purchase of around 1,000,000 bushels a day.

Another item of interest in the Government's statement on its buying was that which said it had purchased flour equal to 10,920,000 bushels of wheat since March 3. This was more than the 8,500,000 bushels it had originally asked for, indicated mills were anxious to obtain Government orders to keep their plants running.

HOG MARKET LOWER FOR WEEK, CATTLE PRICES ARE MIXED

ST. LOUIS LIVESTOCK EXCHANGE, Ill., March 13—Hog receipts 550; market, 25@50c higher than Friday's average; top, $23.50 on 180 to 220 lbs.; packing sow top, $18.25; pig top, $22.50 on 130 to 150 lbs.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, March 13 (USDA weekly review of local livestock market.)

Good and choice steers and heifers closed weak to 50c lower than the previous Friday after losing Monday's advance, while common and medium steers and heifers along with cows finished the period about steady. Bulls closed 50c higher, choice vealers $3 higher with lower grades steady to $2 up. Replacement steers in very light supply found expanded demand with prices showing uneven improvement. Choice 1077-lb. yearling steers topped at $28.50 and 1223-lb. steers at $28.25. Majority low to average choice steers brought $27@28.25, low to top good steers, $25@26.75, and medium steers, $23@24.75. A few common and low medium steers went at $20@22. Good to choice 851-lb. feeder steers attained $24.90, medium and good lots, $19@23.50. Top good to choice 838-lb. mixed steers and heifers along with 633-lb. heifers topped at $26.50, one 8 head lot of choice 1051-lb. mixed steers and heifers at $27.50. Good heifers and mixed yearlings went mainly at $24.50@26.50, medium kinds, $21@24, and common to low medium, $17.50@20. Good cows claimed $20.50@22, odd heads above. Common and medium beef cows went at $17.50@20, canners and cutters largely $13.50@17 with light shells, $12.50@13. Good beef bulls cashed at $22.50@23, medium and good sausage bulls, $21@22.50, cutter and common bulls, $17@20. Good and choice vealers sold mainly at $24@29.50, top reaching $30 in closing trade. Common and medium vealers claimed $15@23, culls, $8@12.

Hogs closed the week mostly 50@75c lower, sows 25@50c lower. Top prices ranged from $22.75@23.75, the Friday top $23.25. Bulk of 180 to 250 lbs. sold at $22@23.50, 250 to 300 lbs., $20.50@22.50, 300 to 350 lbs., $19@21, 130 to 160 lbs., $19@22.50, and 100 to 120 lbs., $15@18.25. Sows closed at $17@18.25, bulk for week, $17.25@19.

Fat lambs, unevenly, 25@75c lower, run nearly twice as large as week before but dropped off late when market firmed up slightly. Bulk of wooled lambs brought $21.25@23, a high percentage being merely good grade Texas and wheatfield lambs; week's top early $23 but little over $22.50 late. Few loads shorn lambs, $18.75@21.

COTTON UP $2.00 TO $2.25

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Cotton futures were strong today with prices at times advancing as much as $3 a bale.

A heavy accumulation of buying orders came into the ring at the opening and boosted prices sharply higher. The extreme advance, however, encountered hedging and some weekend profit taking and prices yielded a portion of the rise.

The heavy buying was stimulated by belief that the early passage of the Marshall plan would result in increased shipments of cotton to needy nations. An additional stimulant was announcement by the Department of Agriculture that it would resume buying wheat for export.

Bonds to Finance Bridge.

TACOMA, Wash., March 13 (AP)—An agreement for an investment syndicate's purchase of a $14,000,000 bond issue to finance state construction of the Tacoma narrows bridge was announced.

The announcement came from Lyle Wilson, an official of the Pacific Northwest Co., local representative of a syndicate headed by Kuhn Loeb & Co., of New York and A. C. Allyn & Co., Chicago.

Wilson said the agreement was for purchase of the $14,000,000 bond issue for $13,300,000 at 3¾ per cent interest.

ANDY BURGER OWES $810,562 IN TAXES, SAYS GOVERNMENT

Records at the Probate Court and Circuit Court at Clayton show that Burger and his wife established a trust estate for Nancy Gene and that the National Surety Co. furnished a bond in the amount of $30,000. The bonding company later asked to be relieved of the bond on the ground that the estate consisted of a partnership in an automobile business, which the company considered risky at the time.

The St. Louis Circuit Court of Appeals granted the company's request in September 1945. Meanwhile, the Burgers obtained another bond, this time in the amount of $115,000, from the Manufacturers Casualty Insurance Co.

Asked About $1000 Check.

During the Government investigation, Burger was asked about a $1000 check received in 1942 from an employe. The $1000, he explained, was in repayment of a loan that he and his wife made to the employe, the year before.

Burger said the investigation of his income tax returns began in 1946 after his 1941 returns had been audited. Most of the companies in which he and his wife claimed partnership were begun in 1941.

"When the matter of partnership was brought up, and we claimed the right to file on that basis, the Internal Revenue men began looking into the 1942, 1943 and 1944 returns," he explained.

He said the revenue department claimed his income for 1941 was $147,756. He paid taxes on $63,740, he said. Taxes on the balance of the income — $82,016, which is the difference between $63,740 and $145,756—were paid, he said, by his wife and his daughter, under the trust.

"One of the revenue agents," he said, "suggested that I file a tax return on the basis of a salary of $150,000 instead of filing a return on a partnership basis. I refused to do this, because I don't think any man is worth that much in one year to a business."

In reference to taxes already paid for the four years in question, Burger said he "didn't know how much had been paid. But don't worry," he said, "it's quite a lot, running up into several hundred thousand dollars. You must remember, we have $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 invested in these businesses."

He said he did not know whether the subcommittee's investigation referred to him, but he did stress the point that there was no fraud in the case.

"If there were any fraud in my dealings with the Government," he said, "don't you think I would be more than glad to settle this thing as quickly as possible and get it over with?

"But I'm not anxious to get it over with. We are fighting this thing all the way, because it is not a proper claim."

John W. Snyder, Secretary of the Treasury, in discussing the case with a Post-Dispatch reporter in Washington, said: "There doesn't appear to have been any criminal action in this case such as you could send a man to jail for."

The federal income tax law makes it plain that individuals who file "false and fraudulent" returns may compromise the cases by civil settlement.

The report of the subcommittee's investigation quoted the unnamed St. Louisan as saying he had spent money in Washington, but declining to say whom he spent it on. The St. Louisan was further quoted as saying: "I received no benefits (from the money spent) other than from business. In 1943, I spent around $2200 at Christmas."

Burger told the Post-Dispatch that the Tool Manufacturing Co. in which he and his wife are interested obtained some sub-contract work during the war for an airplane manufacturing concern, but had no direct contracts with the Army or Navy.

The sub-contract work his company did, he said, was a small amount of business. "During the years 1941 to 1944, the period in question," he said, "Tool Manufacturing did less than $200,000 worth of business a year."

He said he told agents he did not receive personal benefits from business expenditures, such as checks paid for dinner parties at which customers were entertained. He recalled telling the agents about Christmas expenditures in 1943, although he did not remember the amount spent. The money, he said, was for Christmas remembrances to customers.

He denied spending money in Washington on anyone. He said: "I've only been there three times in my life, and not at all in recent years."

Sunburned and healthy-appearing, Burger talked with this correspondent in a beach cottage where he and his wife are spending three weeks. His home is at 20 Countryside lane, Ladue, and his principal office is at 5200 Virginia avenue, in the building occupied by the Automotive Rebuilding Co.

ments to the pigeon-holed Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill. As a matter of fact what the committee recommends is in effect a modernized version of the T.-E.-W. bill. McCarthy's own bill could be similarly characterized if it contained provisions for public and rural housing.

The division in the committee in favor of public housing was believed to be 8 to 6 with Senator Ralph E. Flanders (Rep.), Vermont, and Senator Charles W. Tobey (Rep.), New Hampshire, joining the six Democrats on the committee to form the majority.

There was, however, no roll call vote in the committee. The report, drafted by Senator Flanders, was accepted on a voice vote and there were no "noes" when the question was put.

Staff Report Revised.

The public housing recommendation of the committee became inevitable several days ago when it sent back for revision a staff draft of a proposed report containing arguments against public housing. The staff report, a document of more than 500 pages, is being revised to eliminate all conclusions and will be merely a factual and statistical account of the committee's studies.

After rejection of the staff report the task of preparing the committee report devolved on Senator Flanders. His report is a typewritten manuscript of 60 pages.

When it became apparent several days ago that the joint committee would recommend public housing, Representative Jesse P. Wolcott (Rep.), Michigan, not a member of the joint committee but chairman of the Housing Banking Committee, attempted a maneuver to delay its report.

He put through the House a resolution which would have extended the life of the joint committee until June 30, by which time it would be too late for Congress to act on any recommendation it might make.

No similar resolution was offered in the Senate, however, and the joint committee will go out of existence Monday, as was contemplated when it was created last year.

Wolcott Still Has Trumps.

Wolcott, as chairman of the House Banking Comittee, has kept the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill bottled up in that committee for a year.

He still holds trumps, because the joint committee cannot present bills for consideration on the floor. There will remain, after it has ceased to function, the task of introducing bills conforming to its recommendations.

These bills will, in due course, be referred to the banking committees of the two chambers. The Senate Banking Committee, of which Tobey is chairman, already has approved the T.-E.-W. bill, and the legislation recommended in the Flanders report partakes of a modernized version of the T.-E.-W. bill.

CLIFFORD W. GAYLORD TO HEAD RIVERFRONT MEMORIAL BODY

Clifford W. Gaylord accepted nomination to be president of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Association, succeeding Luther Ely Smith, at a dinner meeting at the Racquet Club last night.

Formal election will take place at a later meeting, Smith said. Forty business and civic leaders, most of them members of the association, attended the dinner. Speakers expressed pleasure over the Saarinen design, selected recently for the riverfront park area, and said the association would work to obtain federal funds for construction.

Smith, who has been seeking to resign for several months, has served as president almost the entire time since the association was founded in 1933. Gaylord, president of the Gaylord Container Corp., is one of three vice-presidents.

ARABS ARE INVITED TO CONSULT BIG 4 ON PARTITION PLAN

Action Taken After Jewish Agency Reaffirms Opposition to Any Change on Palestine.

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—The four powers discussing Palestine decided last ngiht to invite the Arab Higher Committee to end its boycott and appear before them Monday.

This action was taken after the four powers heard a statement from the Jewish Agency for Palestine reaffirming the agency's opposition to any modification in the United Nations plan to partition Palestine.

Secretary General Trygve Lie of the U.N. was asked to transmit the invitation to the Arab Higher Committee immediately. The Arab Higher Committee so far has declined to discuss partition with the U.N. group.

Gromyko Sits Silent.

Andrei A. Gromyko refused to discuss the partition question with Jewish leaders at the conference yesterday. The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister sat silent for two hours while the Jewish Agency spokesman, Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, urged the powers to carry out without change the U.N. plan to create Jewish and Arab countries in the Holy Land.

The Soviet delegate declared in a statement handed to newspaper men after the conference that he still felt that such talks with Arab and Jewish leaders would only lead to complications. He maintains that the views of the Jews and Arabs are known, and insists that the partition plan be carried out.

He charged that the United States wants to start again at the beginning of the Palestine question.

A Soviet source earlier this week made a similar charge, which drew a sharp retort from Warren R. Austin, United States delegate, that Russia is pre-judging the results of the consultations.

Second United States Statement.

The United States delegation, for the second time in two days, issued a special statement on its position on Palestine.

Thursday it answered reports that it favored a federal state in Palestine with a flat statement that its position favoring partition was not changed.

Yesterday it took note of published reports in which U.N. sources expressed belief that the United States has abandoned the U.N. program for partitioning Palestine.

The second statement insisted that there must be a peaceful solution of the Palestine problem. The United States delegation said the purpose of the big power talks is to find a means for carrying out peacefully the recommendation of the U.N. Assembly for the partition of Palestine within an economic union.

The United States also declared that the attainment of a peaceful solution is not being helped by the refusal of one or more parties to take part in the consultations.

$450,000 CANCER GRANT URGED FOR WASHINGTON U.

Fund Proposed by Advisory Council Would Be for Building Research Facilities.

A grant of $450,000 to Washington University Medical School for construction of cancer research facilities has been recommended by the National Advisory Cancer Council of the United States Public Health Service, it was announced today.

A decision as to the manner in which the money will be used, if the grant is finally approved, has not been made, a university spokesman said. The sum must be matched by university funds.

The grant was one of 21 recommended by the council which would distribute about $8,000,000 of Federal funds for construction of cancer research facilities. A bill authorizing granting of the $8,000,000 has been passed by the House of Representatives but is pending in the Senate.

Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital, which has applied for $250,000 to pay part of the cost of constructing a new hospital in the Barnes-Washington University Medical School group, was not included in the list recommended by the council. Barnard is planning to affiliate with Washington, if it can raise funds for a new hospital building.

The advisory cancer council also recommended that $2,053,000 now available be parcelled out among the 21 institutions "where most needed," if the Senate delays approval of the $8,000,000 authorization. Dr. Edward A. Doisy, professor of biological chemistry at St. Louis University, is a member of the advisory cancer council.

JEWISH HOSPITAL DEFICIT OF $111,996 FOR LAST YEAR

Jewish Hospital incurred a net operating deficit of $111,996 in 1947, which emphasizes the depletion of reserve funds and the urgent need for financial assistance in the form of donations and legacies, Maj. B. Einstein, president of the board of directors, said in his annual report today.

It cost $1,150,024 to operate the hospital last year. Patients paid $984,425, and the operating deficit was reduced by income from endowment funds and Community Chest payments totaling $53,603, he reported.

Although the shortage of graduate nurses made it necessary to close the seventh floor and dispense with about 10 per cent of its bed capacity for three months, the hospital had 9827 admissions during the year, compared to 9112 in 1946. About $83,000 worth of care was contributed to free or part-pay patients. Slightly less than half of the patients cared for in 1947 were non-Jewish.

FAIR BOARD TO ACT FRIDAY ON C. OF C. RECOMMENDATION

Formal action on the Chamber of Commerce recommendation for postponement of the $1,000,000 fund-raising drive for the proposed 1953 World's Fair will be taken by the fair organization's executive committee at a meeting next Friday, Stratford Lee Morton, general chairman, announced yesterday.

As was told yesterday, Fair sponsors have decided to drop plans for an immediate campaign as a result of Thursday's action by the Chamber board of directors, which voted for a one-year delay in raising of money to finance further study on feasibility of a fair.

Chamber indorsement had been requested by Morton's committee. The Chamber board said it would reconsider the fair proposal next year, "if there is still sufficient interest at that time."

SALESMEN WANTED

SALESMAN
We have a preferred interest for a veteran who either has had some previous selling experience, is now selling and wishes to change positions or feels that the type of work he is now doing is too restricted and is determined to enter the sales field, confident that if given a fair chance he could produce results.
This work consists of demonstrating and selling a line of nationally advertised and patented washing compounds for use in mechanical dishwashing in restaurants, hotels and hospitals, dairy and farm compounds, other specialized cleansers and water-conditioning chemicals. The work is interesting and the man will deal with executive, technical and operating personnel. It also provides an excellent opportunity for one having some mechanical ability or chemical education to utilize this in his sales work.
We will work with the man in the field teaching and training him about the products as to how they are sold and serviced. He will have during this period an opportunity to do some sales work and study advertising and technical literature. There will also be periodic visits in the territory by the supervisor at which time additional help will be given. The man will work in a protected territory and he will receive credit for both direct and indirect business.
The man will operate on a salary of $200 per month plus expense allowances and be able to increase his income under an excellent bonus plan. The established current business goes to the man's credit and his monthly bonus will amount to approximately forty dollars. Car is necessary. Call Mr. C. C. Keck, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., CEntral 1426, March 15 and 16, for appointment.

SALESMAN; age 24-35; to sell for national manufacturing organization with top line in its field; already established territory with large volume of business; contacting jobbers and dealers; some traveling; car furnished; salary, commission traveling expenses paid, pension plan and other desirable assets; state age and experience; our salesmen know about this ad. "Neurotica"

Magazine for All Of Us Neurotics

By Dickson Terry

IT MAY be of interest, and some consolation, to the rest of you neurotics to know that we now have a magazine of our own. It is called, with forthright aptness, "Neurotica," and it is being published right here in St. Louis. Not that St. Louis can lay claim to being any national bed of neuroses. It is merely the accident of birth. Some St. Louis neurotics decided that something should be done about exploring, in fiction and non-fiction, the problems, interests and tastes of the neurotic personality.

The magazine, we have decided after scanning the first issue, is not for run of the mill neurotics, the kind who feel nothing more interesting than an impulse to jump out of streetcar windows. It is rather for the advanced cases. The people who are having their meals served to them under the bed where they have gone into hiding. Unless you have been to at least three psychiatrists, two of them with foreign names, you can hardly hope to qualify.

★ ★ ★

THE GUIDING SPIRIT of Neurotica is Jay Irving Landesman, 27-year-old neurotic who also deals in antiques and objects of art at the Landesman galleries out on Olive street. Landesman lives on the second floor above another antique shop on Olive street, and it is there, on an ornate bed with carved statuary bedposts, a copy of a bed which once belonged to Cardinal Richelieu, that Neurotica was born. Landesman and some friends, among them Richard Rubenstein, another died-in-the-wool neurotic, were discussing literature, how stale, flat and unprofitable it had become, and what should be done about it. The answer was obvious. Then and there, on the bed which requires two mattresses and springs because of its size thus making it quite adequate to support a board meeting, plans were made for the magazine.

★ ★ ★

LANDESMAN is a likeable young man of medium size whose neuroticism hardly shows. He came into the antique business through his father, the late Benjamin Landesman, who came to this country from Germany in 1904 to paint murals in some of the World's Fair buildings and remained to become a successful antique dealer. Jay Irving went to the University of Missouri and to Rice Institute where he studied literature because he thought he might like to be a writer. He was discouraged after taking a course on the Elizabethan Novel. He and his two brothers now operate the galleries. One of his brothers, Fred, is an artist. Been an artist for 20 years, says Jay, and hasn't painted a picture. He quit painting when he was 13 or thereabouts, after having won a number of prizes as a child prodigy, and has been studying ever since. He plans to paint again when he feels that he has acquired sufficient knowledge of the subject. When he is about 50, perhaps.

LANDESMAN ISN'T too neurotic to be a keen student of the dollar. He is making a success in the antique business, and he has turned some ready money in several other enterprises, notably Little Bohemia, the salon-saloon which opened a couple of years ago down near the river with the alleged purpose of putting into practice Tom Benton's famed dictum that it would be a better world for artists if they showed their pictures in saloons instead of museums. Landesman sold out his interest with a nice profit, which he is putting into Neurotica.

The office of Neurotica is a sort of storeroom off his apartment. The apartment itself, a one-time bookie joint, provides the proper atmosphere. The walls are painted an off-shade of pink, the floors are wide black and white stripes. The furniture combines a little of everything, all heavy and all ornate. There is a suite of two chairs and a sofa, rococo, with gold frames and green upholstery which came from the French Colony in Africa. There is a lamp made from a life-size blackamoor who holds aloft an unlighted torch. There are ornate chairs of various periods, a grand piano, another sofa flanked with lamps with statuary bases. One wall contains a book shelf, a record collection. Both Landesman and his wife are collectors of old jazz records, and it was their common interest in records which first brought them together.

RUBENSTEIN, who is listed as contributing editor of Neurotica, is a former St. Louisan who came home a year ago after eight years of wandering in Mexico, California and other places, and who now wants to leave St. Louis but is afraid to. Fear complex. Just dropped into town to say hello to his family, and then couldn't get out again. His contribution to the first issue of Neurotica is a prose poem called "Night Below Night," a sort of phantasmagoria which leaves no psychotic stone unturned, thereby releasing a lot of strange wharfandsea smells and a hero whose lungs are coated with silence and who walks in streets that are overgrown with giant raspberry-colored foliage.

Neurotica, according to the foreword, "is a literary exposition, defense and correlation of the problems and personalities that in our culture are defined as 'neurotic'. It is said that if you tie a piece of red cloth to a gull's leg its fellow gulls will peck it to pieces; and Neurotica wishes to draw an analogy between this observation and the plight of today's creative 'anxious men'. We are interested in exploring the creativeness of this man who has been forced to live underground, and yet lights an utter darkness with his music, poetry, painting and writing. And Neurotica will present, in as non-technical language as possible, the authoritative scientists' approach to all aspects of neuroticism."

★ ★ ★

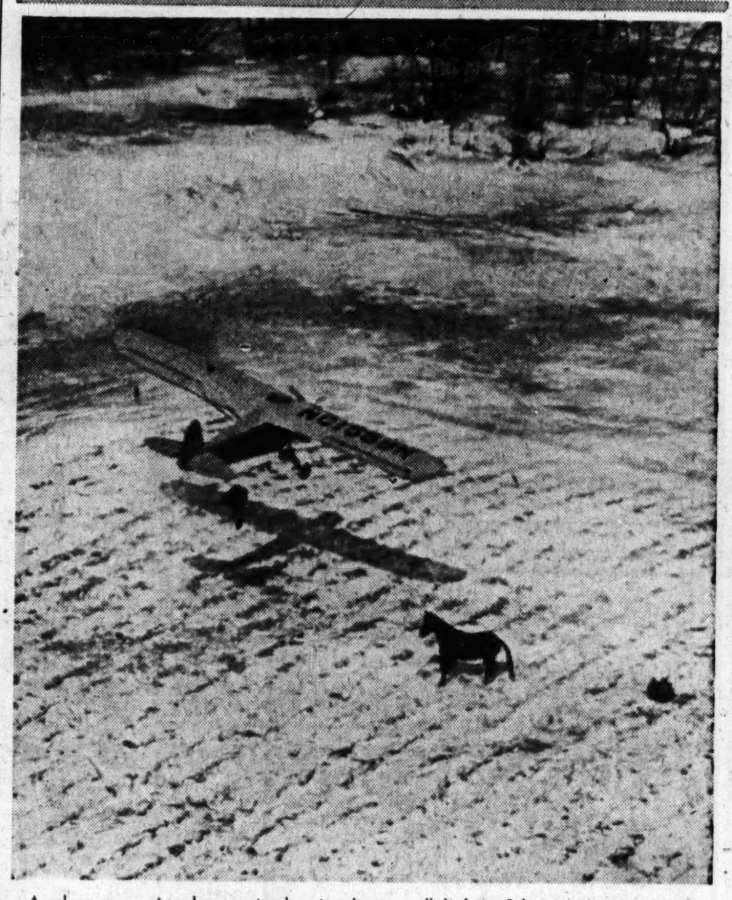

ANYWAY, Landesman has a number of letters from outstanding psychiatrists applauding the idea, and a lot of neurotic writers who are ready and willing to contribute to the magazine for the token payment of one dollar a page. Furthermore advance sales have been big enough to help finance the launching of the magazine, which, we are convinced, has some significance, even though we're not sure just what it is. We'll ask our psychiatrist.

What Am I Saying!

CUPIDITY, it seems to me, is responsible for almost as many marriages as Cupid. Which brings to mind that the woman who marries a man for his money usually earns it.

Marooned Horse Gets Feed by Air

A plane swooping low yesterday to drop small bales of hay to Nig, a black saddle horse that has been marooned for two weeks on a patch of high ground by floodwaters and ice in the Pecatonica (Ill.) river 15 miles northwest of Rockford. The horse refused to venture out into the river and its owner, Dewey Cox, hired a pilot to supply it from the air.

MOUNTAINSIDE RESCUE In a mountainside rescue, 76-year-old John Swartz (arrow) is assisted from his automobile, which dangles from a railroad chain hoist, after the machine plunged down a cliff near Mauch Chunk, Pa., and struck a tree 25 feet above the Jersey Central railroad tracks. Swartz and his 77-year-old wife, who was rescued shortly before picture was taken, were trapped for more than three hours.

The Lions' Gift.

SALEM, Ore.—The Lions Club gave 50 books to the county jail library. The sheriff refused to acctpt one of them.

Its title—"Saws, Knives and Files."

The Mary Janeses.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Mary Jane Jones told the Fulton Superior Cou½rt she was tired of getting mixed up with all the other Mary Joneses in town.

In a petition to change her name, she said mail and telephone calls had become confused. The city directory lists 53 Mary Joneses.

Her attorney asked the court to allow her to change her name to Jan de Wolf Jones. That would leave her without a competitor in the city and telephone directories.

The Betting Coup.

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Five men were arrested for an alleged attempt to engineer a betting coup by cutting the telephone wires which took horse race results to a bookmaker.

The alleged plan went awry, Police Chief Robert Malmberg said that, so far as known, those held did not profit. Two outsiders, however, reportedly got wind of the plan and netted $12,300.

TOLD OF $200,000 BEQUEST BUT CAN'T FIND IT OR WILL

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—A $150-a-month handyman said yesterday he had gotten word a $200,000 fortune was left to him by a Texan he once befriended. But a check in Texas failed to turn up trace of the man who is supposed to have left the money.

Richard Dawson, 62 years old, handyman at Providence Hospital, gave this account to reporters: A man giving his name as J. C. Turner, a Dallas lawyer, came to Dawson last night. Turner told him the money was left him in the will of Boun Switzz of Delaware, Tex., who died two weeks ago.

Turner said Switzz gave Dawson the money because of the handyman's care when the Texan was a patient 13 years ago in a Baltimore hospital. Dawson was an orderly there at the time.

Providence Hospital officials, who said Turner also talked to them first, corroborated Turner's account. But in Texas there was no record of a Switzz will either in Dallas or in Brown county, where Delaware is located. Other attorneys in Dallas said they had never heard of Turner. Undertakers had no record of Switzz's death. Internal revenue officials had no report of such an inheritance.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM very much in love with a young man whom I fear is not being sincere with me. He is 27, recently started in a little business of his own which often requires his evenings as well as days through Saturday. I met him just after he had opened this business, a little over a year ago. We had some dates but more often he would come to my aunt's where I live and sit and talk for an evening. Always he stressed how busy he was, how long it would be before he would be in a position to marry. Yet for several months he asked me out from once to three times each week, but would always call at the last minute and never seemed too upset if I had another engagement, as was often the case. After nearly a year of this suddenly he stopped seeing me. I saw him several times out with other girls, and he was always cordial. After a month of absent treatment when I had wept some tears, then about to become reconciled, he telephoned, attempted to take up our friendship again as if nothing had occurred. Unfortunately I had to refuse because of illness in the family. I had to do this several times. Now my relative is well again and I am free, but it is a month since I have had a call. I couldn't stand it, so phoned and asked him to dinner, and was turned down. When I am with him he makes me feel he cares as much for me as I do for him. Is he insincere and not in love with me? Or does he hesitate to ask me to marry him because he knows he can't marry just now? If so how can I get him to propose? What is best for me to do? STUMPED.

From long range it is not possible to tell whether or not this young man is in love with you. It is safe to say, however, that he does enjoy your company. Perhaps the reason he acts as he does is because he wants to avoid the chance of having you fall in love with each other when he knows that his circumstances would necessitate a long wait between engagement and marriage. He may realize this would not be fair to you, and he is trying not to allow you to become involved. As to how to get him to propose, willy-nilly, that is a little trick each woman has to figure out for herself. I think the best thing for you to do at present is to hold your tears and your emotions in check, date others, be glad to see this man when he can come, and don't allow yourself to take him too seriously. He has been honest in stating his position, you'll have to admit that.

IN ANSWER TO "Needing a Job": If you have no special training, since your mother is caring for the children, take a business course of some kind if you have the time and can afford it. Sorry, I can't get jobs for anyone, can only suggest the usual channels. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my "Occupations for Women" leaflet.

IN ANSWER TO "W.": It seems to me it will be all right to invite the boy to your party under the circumstances. If you will mail me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I'll send you my Easter Party and Leap Year Party leaflets.

Important Job

By Angelo Patri

THERE are too many boys and girls in this country today without aim or purpose in living. They left school probably because there was nothing there for them and went out into the world of affairs to try to find something there. Without experience of life, without training for usefulness, they wander about; and unable to reach above themselves, fall into evil ways and end in grief.

These children are the responsibility of society, all of us. Their families can do nothing for them or with them, being without power of any sort. They usually live in a couple of rooms on the smallest of budgets. They have little or no training themselves and, if they have an ambition for their children, they are unable to achieve it.

MANY OF these children have not the mental equipment to be graduates of high school, some cannot reach beyond the sixth grade, if that far. This means that we have a considerable group of children growing into maturity without guidance, without vision, without hope. Small wonder they get into the courts. And it is society's fault.

We as a nation have a stake in the youth of the land. It is to our advantage to educate and train and guide them so they become worthy citizens of a great nation. We are not doing it. All that is necessary to prove that to ourselves is a short walk through the poorer districts of any town, the streets where the idle and hopeless wander day and night. It is not a pleasant sight and most people turn their backs upon it muttering something about those loafers, hangers-on, and the police failing to clear the streets of them.

THE POLICE should not be clearing the streets of these young ones. We teachers and parents and "good" citizens should be doing that by seeing that every boy and girl of adolescent age is accounted for, provided with the training, education, disciplines, that will prepare them for a place in society. It can be done and it must be done.

We are busy training and educating the leaders of society. They are in the schools and colleges. But the followers, those who should do the work necessary to carry the nation forward, how about them? A goodly number of them are being neglected, forsaken and allowed to go to destruction. This is the concern of all good men and women. Parents' associations, teachers' associations, the social service groups of all sorts, should make it their major concern until every adolescent boy and girl in their district is accounted for either on the rolls and in the benches of the schools or in training in industry. It is a far more important job than many of them are now doing.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A YOUNG girl asks whether it is improper for her to wear flowers when going to a dance, if her boy friend has not sent them. "I love flowers," she writes, "and can't understand why I should not wear them just as most girls wear jewelry. My girl friends have kept me from wearing any because they insist that a boy who takes me out will feel "deflated" if I wear flowers not brought me by him."

Most boys probably would feel chagrined if they thought you had to buy them yourself. But if your father loves to give you flowers to wear—as many fathers do—your explanation that "dad always gives me flowers when I go out" certainly would save a reasonable boy's feelings. Or, since your letter is from the South, you may have picked them in your garden. You, of course, could tell him this and very properly might pick a boutonniere for him!

DEAR MRS. POST: I'd like to know if it would be proper to send wedding invitations to office associates and, if so, should these be addressed to their homes or to the office? They are not personal friends.

Answer: Usually only those office associates who are not personal friends are invited as an office group and one invitation is sent for all. Personal friends, even though they work in the same office with you, have their invitations sent to their homes.

A Physician On Functions Of Kidneys

By C. A. Dean, M. D.

MOST people accept the thesis that the kidney is an important organ of the body and any of its diseases are usually serious. Most of them do not know what the kidney is supposed to do for the body, however.

In general, the work which the kidney performs may be divided into four groups: It eliminates from the body waste water or water in excess of what the tissues require; it eliminates excess salts of all kinds (the failure of this single function can rapidly result in death); the kidney eliminates wastes other than salts, such as nitrogen compounds; the fourth function is to assist in the acid and alkali balance of the body.

It is obvious how complicated these processes are, and some idea may be gained as to what a problem kidney diseases are to the doctor by studying these four functions alone.

Question: "Could diseased tonsils cause fatigue, difficult breathing, and pains around the heart?"

Answer: It is possible for infected tonsils to cause many symptoms. The most common of these are the respiratory ailments such as colds, coughs, sinus trouble, etc. Frequent trouble with the tonsils occurring over a long period of time may result in a serious type of organic heart disease. Rheumatic pains in the muscles and joints may result from infected tonsils. Various studies can usually determine the cause of these symptoms.

I would suggest the following things. If the heart has been studied clinically including an electrocardiogram (an electrical tracing of the heart) and has been said to be negative, then it is probably not the cause of the symptoms. It is relatively easy to tell if the tonsils are diseased and they should be checked for the presence of any infection. (They may be guilty).

The chest should be studied (including X-ray). Quite often the symptoms described in the question result from infection in the lungs. It is strange how often symptoms of a lung infection such as tuberculosis are attributed to some other disease. The early symptoms of T.B. may only be fatigue and some difficulty in breathing. The examination of the lungs is most important of all and is not complete without an X-ray. Today, most state health departments operate chest clinics where this examination may be obtained free or for a nominal fee.

Even his party pals begin to feel that any displaced-persons program should include accommodations for our Harry as of Nov. 3.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

IS the "real red" kind of chocolate cake your ideal? One of my former assistants has been asked for such a recipe so many times that now she always tells her inquirers about one of her home economics instructors who also had such requests. This instructor would ask "just why do you want a red cake?" And to her knowledge, she never received a very satisfactory answer. It was her personal opinion that an excess of soda had to be used to produce the desired red, and that kind of cake never had as pleasing flavor as a browner chocolate cake that contained no soda.

Numerous bakings and taste-tests in her laboratory continually substantiated her opinion. Cake made by the following recipe would have pleased this instructor immensely.

If your family is one that is more pleased by the sight than by the taste, then add a little red vegetable coloring to the batter and everyone will be pleased. While the recipe is written up as a quick-mix cake to be stirred up with an electric mixer, you can make the cake by the old conventionel hand method and it will be just as good. And once you try this icing, your other favorite butter icing recipe may be pushed to the back of the file. It's fluffy, creamy and stays that way.

Make frosting while cake bakes so that all the soiled utensils can be cleaned up at one time. Letting the icing stand in the small mixer bowl while the cake cools never alters its consistency. It will spread in fluffy, deep swirls. You can use butter or margarine, but this is not necessary. Vegetable shortening will also make delicious icing. And two squares melted chocolate can be used in place of the cocoa, but it seems easier for a lot of cooks to use the cocoa.

Sweet Milk Chocolate Cake.
(Quick-Mix.)

Two cups cake flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup shortening (room temperature), two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup sweet milk, two squares (two ounces), unsweetened chocolate (melted and cooled).

One-third cup cocoa may be substituted for the chocolate in which case the cocoa should be sifted with the dry ingredients.

Sift flour, measure and resift three times with the baking powder, sugar and salt. Sift the last time into the large mixer bowl. Add shortening, eggs, vanilla and one-half of the milk. Stir with a spoon to blend. Beat with an electric mixer, using medium low speed, or by hand with a spoon for two minutes by the clock. Scrape sides and bottom of the bowl twice during beating. (Do not count time when beaters are stopped for scraping.) Add the remaining milk and the chocolate and beat for two more minutes. Scrape sides and bottom twice during mixing. Pour into two eight-inch layer pans which have either been greased on the bottom or have the bottoms lined with wax paper. Bake at 350 degrees F. (Moderate) for 20 to 25 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool five minutes before removing from pan. Turn out on cake coolers to cool thoroughly. Frost with fluffy pastry frosting.

Low Cost Menus
SUNDAY.

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit halves, quick coffee cake with streusel topping, fried eggs.

DINNER: Roast beef, browned potatoes, creamed green beans and mushrooms, chopped vegetable salad, bread and butter, chocolate cake.

Contract Bridge

EAST'S reluctance to part with the high trump wrecked the defense in today's deal.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

North.	East.	South.	West.
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the six of diamonds. South guessed that the lead was not from the king, so he put up dummy's ace and led the eight of spades, finessing it. West returned his other diamond, and East won with the king. East saw that a diamond return could do no good—South would ruff high—therefore East returned a heart.

South put up the heart ace and laid down the ace of spades. Next he led a club to dummy's ace and discarded the queen of hearts on the queen of diamonds. Then he ruffed a diamond in his own hand and got back to dummy by ruffing a club. At this point he led the last diamond from dummy—and East was put to the test.

Perhaps East hoped to do better with his high trump than win that trick with it; perhaps he expected it to win two tricks later on! At any rate, he discarded a club. (A heart discard would have been no better.) Declarer thereupon ruffed one of dummy's hearts and ruffed another club in dummy. The defenders won the last trick "tiwce" —with East's high trump and West's high heart!

If East had ruffed dummy's last diamond, the subsequent defense would not have mattered; South would have been set one trick. He would make one trump in his own hand and one in dummy, and the defenders would make the remaining trick.

New Potatoes

Scrub two pounds of new potatoes with a good brush (if your family loves that wonderful, fresh new flavor you may need more). Possibly they look prettier if you cut a ring of the skin off each potato. Put them all in your potato pot and add enough boiling water to reach half the depth of the potatoes. Add about a teaspoon of salt. Cover and let them boil 20 to 30 minutes. They're done when you can pierce them easily with a fork. Drain thoroughly, put in a hot vegetable dish and pour melted butter or margarine over them. Should satisfy four eager, new-potato lovers.

'Why Does Wife Nurse A Grudge?'

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

It irks Mr. S., none the less. "Why on earth does a woman want to nurse a grudge along, the way she does?" he asks. "She suddenly turns sullen and refuses to tell what's on her mind. It's perfectly evident that she's sulking and brooding about something. Why doesn't she come out and say so?

"THE FIRST TIME she pulled this trick on me I was very sympathetic, eager to get at the trouble and make it right. Nothing doing. I'm not sure I ever found out what the trouble was, though I came to suspect that it had something to do with my having changed a dinner engagement because of a business deal. But I'm getting tired of being a sucker and falling over myself trying to read her mind and make her happy. They say women can't keep a secret, but I guess that applies only to other people's secrets. If my wife has one of her own, she'll hang on to it as if it were a map of buried treasure."

You are not the only husband who has been baffled by this tendency, Mr. S. There are probably a good many reasons for it, but one on which some psychologists have laid weight is that it comes natural to a woman to live inwardly. Mrs. Bell Wiley, in her popular book, "So You're Going to Get Married!," describes this tendency of her own sex as vividly as any man could.

"UNLESS YOU have an unusual, nervous, introverted husband," she tells a bride, "you will find that your emotional differences rest on what is, basically, a physiological difference. Everything that has happened to you for a good many years has happened to you on the inside. Something always seems to be going on inside a woman. But the male, short of a bad appendix or indigestion, is an external creature. While the female becomes devious and silent, retreating within herself and brooding over all kinds of casual remarks, the male is honest and open, and if quick to be hurt, he as quickly forgets."

If that is the case, Mr. S., it looks as if we males can't do much about it. Male and female will continue to differ. We might wish that women would understand themselves in this respect and try harder to overcome that tendency, and to "live outside themselves" a little more. On the other hand, we can wait for an attack of appendicitis in order to "live inside ourselves" for a change—and we probably won't think it's any improvement over our present style of life. Meanwhile, we will just have to figure that "women are like that"!

My Day -O- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

EVERYONE who knew Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia must regret his sudden, tragic death. He had a great heritage and had many friends throughout the world. He lacked the strength of his father, but he acted according to his beliefs, I am sure.

I have seen him speak and vote in the United Nations when I felt that quite obviously he was expressing what he felt was the wisest attitude, under the circumstances, for his country's representative to take, though not always what he himself would have liked to stand for. That was sad but understandable.

I remember hearing before the end of the war that President Eduard Benes felt his country's future lay in conciliation of Russia and in joint economic interests. Certainly both Mr. Benes and Mr. Masaryk did all they could to keep their country free and yet to maintain a friendly and consistently conciliatory attitude toward the U.S.S.R.

The theory was entirely correct. Their only mistake was in not judging correctly what the objectives of the U.S.S.R. would be. The U.S.S.R. is not content—along her borders, at least — with just a friendly attitude. They want the whole cheese of complete control, and they seem to know how to get it.

Mr. Masaryk was probably a saddened and disillusioned man. How many others will there be in the years to come?

I WONDER IF THE public is aware that under the federal security agency, in the office of vocational rehabilitation, there is a program which helps disabled American civilians to recover and, through care and education, to return to usefulness in the community.

The states, with the assistance of the Federal Government, give the following services to the disabled as a legal right, not as a charity:

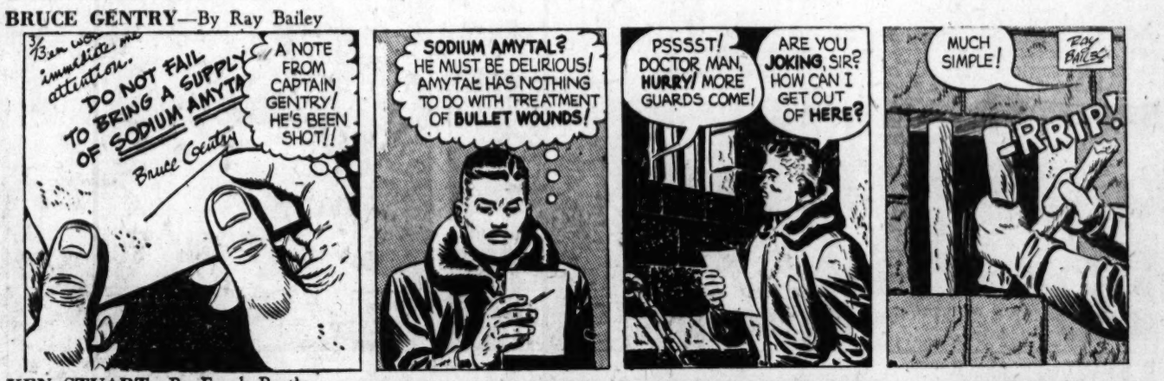

(1) A thorough physical examination. (2) Necessary medical, surgical, psychiatric and hospital services. (3) Necessary prosthetic devices. (4) Individual counseling and guidance. (5) Training for a job—in schools, on the job, by correspondence or by tutor. (6) Maintenance and transportation during rehabilitation, if necessary. (7) Necessary tools, equipment and licenses. (8) Placement on the right job. (9) Follow-up to make sure the worker and the job are properly matched.

To be eligible for these state-federal services, a man or woman must:

(1) Be of work age. (2) Have a substantial job handicap because of physical or mental disability. (3) Have a reasonably good chance of becoming employable or getting a more suitable job through the rehabilitation services.
